  Hi Ruth,
  The rain storm is over so now maybe it is safe for me to finish this message without fear of loosing power again.
  On page 113. As follows;
    In 1660 some families came to Salem from the Channel Islands, having fled there from France.  In 1662 Dr. John Foutou of La Rochelle petitioned the governors of Massachusetts to bring some religious refugees.  This was granted and many came.  In 1680 premission was given to bring refugees to Boston and prior to 1690 hundreds more came.

    The Huguenots organized a congregation in Boston as early as 1685. In 1705 a site for a church was chosen, and the building erected in 1715.
    Rev. Laurent du BOIS was the first pastor.
      ( This paragraph goes on to list other pastors of the church and also states that in 1748 the church as such ceased to exist.)

River. Between 1660 and 1675 they left Germany to come to America settling at Wiltqyck, now Kingston, New York. By 1677 they had gathered in sufficient numbers to request a grant of land from the English governors and on May 26, 1677, they purchased land from the Indians.

The grant of land was given to twelve men in the name of James, Duke of York. Confirmation of the title to the Patentees was signed by Edmund Andris, Colonial Governor of New york, on September 29, 1677. It was due to the fact that Abraham Hasbrouck, one of the Patentees, having served in the English army before coming to America, that the twelve men were granted such a large and valuable area consisting of more than thirty-nine thousand acres.

The twelve men who were *Walloons were Louis DU BOIS and his sons Abraham and Isaac; Christian Deyo and his son Pierre; Louis Bevier; Hugo Freer; Abraham and Jean Hasbrouck, brothers; and Simon and Andries Lefevre. They held their land in common and the fruits of their labour were distributed by a committee of twelve known as "The Dusine" until 1785 when the town was incorporated. They controlled it until 1826.

*Walloons: (means foreign--welch---a word used to characteize new products imported from the new World) a people akin to the French but forming a separate branch of the Romance race, inhabiting the Belgian provinces of Hainant, Namur, Liege, parts of Luxemburg, and southern Brabant. The Walloons are descended from the ancient Gallic Belgi with an admixture of Roman elements. They are in general characterized by greater vivacity and adaptiveness than their Flemish neighbors while they excel their French neighboors in endurance and industry. The Walloon dialect is a distant branch of the Romance languages with some admixture of Flemish and Low German. It was finally as a literary language superseded by French.

The following families are known in the Province of Ontario; doubtless, there is a relationship; DuBois, Delamater.

Pennsylvania

As stated previously, the Huguenots did not settle in Pennsylvania in organized communities and the nearest approach was the one in Pequea Valley in Landcaster County. Here were located a number of Huguenot families of the name DUBOIS, Boileau, Laroux, and Lefevre. With them were also Charles de la Noue (now called Delano), a minister and Andrew Doz and other Huguenots who were induced to settle on the Schuykill River by Penn, to cultivate the grape and lay the foundation of a wine industry but who later abandoned the project because of the unsuitability of the soil.

Ruth, that´s all I could find . Hope this helps.

in his Journal of "a large and precious meeting at William Coale's." His third wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Philip and Sarah (Harrison) Thomas of West River, was the mother of his son, Philip Coale,^{3} born 6 September, 1673; died at "Portand Manor" on the Patuxent, after 16 July, 1718; married at West River Meeting, 6 April, 1697, Cassandra Skipwith, born 29 Oct., 1678, daughter of George Skipwith  of "Silver Stone," Anne Arundel Co., and his wife, Elizabeth Thurston. The former is said to have been the youngest son of Sir Henry Skipwith, Bart., of Prestwould, Leicestershire; and the latter was the daughter of Thomas Thurston, who with his wife Bridget, daughters Elizabeth and Ann, and twenty servants settled in Maryland in 1676, having first visited Maryland and Virginia in 1658. His will, proved 13 April, 1693, named daughter, Elizabeth, wife of George Skipwith.†† Cassandra (Skipwith) Coale by will of 19 June, 1745, disposed of a large estate and made her son, Skipwith Coale, executor thereof. Skipwith^{4} Coale of Portland Manor, son of Philip and Cassandra (Skipwith) Coale, married Margaret, daughter of William and Margaret (Gill) Holland of Calvert Co., Md.; was Captain of militia and one of the "gentleman justices" of Baltimore County; removed to his plantation "Stone Hill," on the Susquehanna in Baltimore, now Harford Co., about 1737, and there died, having executed his will 31 August, 1755, and made his wife, Margaret, his executor. Their son William^{5} Coale, born 6 Dec., 1740, at Stone Hill, married (1) 7 Oct., 1761, Sarah, daughter of Isaac and Margaret (Lee) Webster of Baltimore Co., and died at his plantation "Travelers' Rest," Deer Creek, after March, 1805. His son, Isaac^{6} Coale, born at Travelers' Rest in 1765; married 7 Sept., 1786, at Darlington Friends Meeting House, Rachel, daughter of William and Mary (Goldhawk) Cox of Harford Co.; resided at Wakefield, Deer Creek, Harford Co., where he died circa 1825, and was the father of WILLIAM^{7} ELLIS COALE of Baltimore.

 Discrepancies appear in various printed works as to the parentage of Cassandra Skipwith Coale. Some writers call her the daughter of Sir Gray Skipwith who died in Virginia in 1680, having emigrated to that province during the Cromwellian period. There is agreement, however, as to the descent of her grandfather, Sir Henry Skipwith of Prestwould, from Sir William Skipwith, Knt., of Ormsby, High Sheriff of Lincolnshire, whose wife Alice, was daughter of Sir Lionel Dymoke of the Dymokes, Kings Champion, who descended from Henry III of England.—Cf. The Colonial Families of America, vol. ii, 191; Lawrence Buckley Thomas, D.D., The Thomas Book, New York, 1896, 287-8.

†† Elizabeth (Thurston) Skipwith, widow of George Skipwith and mother of Cassandra (Skipwith) Coale, became the second wife of William Coale, the elder half-brother of Philip Coale. She married (3), as second wife, 29 June, 1704, Samuel Chew, merchant of Anne Arundel Co., whose will of 16 July, 1718, named grand-children-in-law, Cassandra and Elizabeth, daughters of Philip Coale and Cassandra, his wife. Mrs. Elizabeth (Thurston) Skipwith Coale Chew died 27 Feby., 1709/10. Cf. The Thomas Book.

* Hannah Ellicott Carey, born 7 August, 1795, wife of William Ellis Coale, was the daughter of James Carey (1751/2-1834), president of the first City Council of Baltimore and second president of the old Bank of Maryland, and his wife Martha Ellicott. The latter was eldest daughter of John Ellicott and his first wife, Leah Brown. About 1772 John Ellicott, and his brothers, Andrew Ellicott and Joseph Ellicott, sons of Andrew Ellicott (1708-1741) and his wife Ann Bye, removed from Bucks County, Pennsylvania, and bought lands and water rights on the Patapsco River, ten miles west of Baltimore, where Ellicott City now stands. Here the brothers, and their families after them, carried on an extensive milling business.

abandoned in 1893, being burned out in February.

George C. Worstall has been one of the pioneers in practically every public improvement and corporate enterprise in and about Newtown since his arrival at manhood. Edward H. Worstall & Sons owned a twentieth interest in the Newtown and Philadelphia Railroad, and were among the most active promoters of that enterprise. George C. was chairman of the meeting that organized the Newtown Artesian Water Company in 1888, that now supplies the town with water, and has been its president from its organization to the present time. He was one of the organizers and an officer of the Newtown Building Association in 1867, and is a director in the present Association, organized in 1887. He was one of the organizers of the Newtown Electric Light and Power Company, and a director since its organization. He was one of the active promoters and secretary of the Newtown, Langhorne & Bristol Railway Company, and of the Newtown Electric Railway Company, that built the trolley line from Bristol to Newtown and to Doylestown, and is still secretary and director of the latter company. He was one of the organizers of the Standard Telephone Company, as well as of the Newtown & Yardley Street Railway Company, of which he is president. He is president of the Newtown Canning Company, secretary of the Excelsior Bobbin and Spool Company, a director of the Newtown Cemetery Company, director of the Bridgetown & Newtown Turnpike Company, and president of the Newtown Reliance Horse Company. During the Civil war he twice responded to his country's call, first in 1862, when he went to Harrison's Landing, Virginia, as a nurse, and assisted in caring for the sick and wounded, and second in 1863 as a member of an emergency regiment. He is a member of T. H. Wyncoop Post, G. A. R., of Newtown.

He married, March 22, 1865, Hulda A. Price, daughter of Samuel and Sarah (Betts) Price of Buckingham, who died January 1, 1899. They were the parents of two children,—Edward A., who died in his seventh year, and Emma L., residing with her father in Newtown. He married (second) February 19, 1902, Mary W. Barnsley, daughter of John and Mary (Hough) Barnsley, of Newtown, who died September 24, 1904.

In politics Mr. Worstall is a Republican. He has served several terms in town council, and filled other local offices. He was appointed postmaster of Newtown in February, 1901, and was reappointed in February, 1905. He is a member of the Bucks County Historical Society, and actively interested in its work.

DU BOIS FAMILY. The family of DuBois is of French origin, the name being derived from two French words signifying "of the forest." The family is an exceedingly old one, several representatives having achieved distinction there over five centuries ago.

The ancestor of the American branch of the family was Louis DuBois, who fled from France to the Palatinate to escape religious persecution, in 1658, residing for two years in Manheim on the Rhine, then the capital of the Palatinate. He emigrated to America, with his wife and two children in 1660. He located at Kingston, Ulster county, New York, with a number of other French Huguenots, and became a very prominent character there. His wife and three children were carried into captivity by the Indians on July 6, 1663, and he led a company of the enraged settlers, who rescued them and dealt summary vengeance on their savage captors. With his two sons, Abraham and Isaac, and nine other French refuges, known as the "Twelve Patentees," he organized the settlement of New Palz, on the Hudson, opposite Poughkeepsie, in 1677, on 36,000 acres purchased of the Indians and patented to them by Edmund Andros, governor-general under the Duke of York. The other nine patentees were Christian and Pierre Deyou, Abraham and Jean Hasbrouck, Andre and Simon LeFevre, Louis Bevier, Antoine Crespel and Hugh Frere.

Louis DuBois was the first elder of the New Palz Church, organized in 1683, and the first records of the church are in his handwriting. He returned to Kingston in 1686, and died there ten years later. His wife was Cathrine Blancon, whom he married in France, where he was born, near Lyons, in 1630. They had ten children, viz: 1. Abraham, born in France in 1656, died in New Palz, October 7, 1731, married Margaret Deyou, and had seven children, the youngest of whom Mary married Philip Veree, and they settled on the Conestoga, in Lancaster county, on land purchased by Abraham in 1717. 2. Isaac, born at Manheim in 1658, married Maria Hasbrouck, and died at New Palz in 1690. 3. Jacob, born in Kingston, New York, October, 1661, married Gerritje Van Newkirk, died 1745. 4. Sarah, married Joost Jansen. 5. David, whose descendants settled and lived in Ulster county, New York. 6. Solomon, born 1669, died 1759, married Trintje Van Newkirk. 7. Rachel, died young. 8. Rebecca, also died young. 9. Louis, born 1677, married Rachel Hasbrouck. 10 Mathew, born 1679, married Sarah Mathewsen. Of these children—Jacob and Solomon—have descendants in Bucks county.

Jacob DuBois, third son of Louis and Catharine (Blancon) DuBois, was the first of the family born in America, being baptised at Kingston, Ulster county, New York, October 9, 1661, when but a few days old. He married at New Palz about 1690, Gerrite Van Niuwkirk, daughter of Gerrit and grand-daughter of Cornelius Van Nieuwkirk, one of the earliest emigrants from Holland, and with those other descendants later generations of the DuBois family married in New Jersey. Solomon, fifth son of Louis, married Trintje, another daughter of Gerrit, and his eldest daughter Jacomyntje became the wife of Barent, the eldest son of Jacob, her double first cousin, and they were the parents of the Rev. Jonathan DuBois, who became pastor of the Dutch Reformed church of North and Southampton in 1748, married Eleanor Wynkoop, and has left numerous descendants in Bucks county. Jacob DuBois settled on a farm of his father's at Hurley, Ulster county, New York, and spent his whole life there, dying in June, 1745. By his Dutch wife Gerritje, otherwise Margaret Van Newkirk, he had eleven children: Magdalena, Barent, Louis, Isaac, Sarah, who married Conrad Ermendorf; Gerritje, Gerrit, Catharine, who married Petreus Smedes; Rebecca, Neeltje, and John. Jacob DuBois purchased in 1714 1,200 acres in Salem county, New Jersey, upon which three of his sons settled on arriving at manhood, viz.: Barent, Louis, and Gerrit, though the latter returned to Ulster county on the death of his father. Barent was an elder of Pittsgrove Presbyterian church, and a prominent man in Salem county: he died there January 22, 1750, leaving eight children. The other children of Jacob DuBois remained in Ulster county, New York.

Louis DuBois, second son and third child of Jacob and Gerritje, was born in Hurley, Ulster county, New York, January 6, 1695. He married, May 20, 1720, Margaret Jansen, and settled in Pittsgrove township, Salem county, New Jersey, where he became the owner of 1,091 acres of land. He and his wife were among the first members of Pittsgrove Presbyterian church, of which he was an elder and trustee. He died in 1784. He had eleven children, viz.; Jacob, born 1720, died 1768; Mathew, born 1722; Anna, born 1724, married Rev. Marenus, of New York, later pastor of Freehold church; Gerritje, born 1726; John, born 1728, died at New London, Chester county, Pennsylvania, while a student for the ministry with his cousin, Jonathan, in July, 1746; Elizabeth, born 1739, died 1785, married Garret Newkirk; Cornelius, born 1732; Peter, born 1734; Joseph, died young; Benjamin, born 1739, an eminent minister of the Gospel, pastor of Freehold Presbyterian church for sixty-three years, 1764 to 1827; Samuel, born 1741, died 1811. All except two of these have left descendants who are now scattered over the United States.

Peter DuBois, eighth child of Louis and Margaret, was born in Pittsgrove, Salem county, New Jersey, April 10, 1734. He was an intelligent and thrifty farmer and a pious and consistent Christian gentleman. He was a lieutenant in the company of his cousin, Jacob DuBois, and later a captain during the revolution. He died August 21, 1795. He married in 1758 Amey, daughter of Jeremiah and Sarah (Blackman) Greenman, and sister to Rev. Nehemiah Greenman, pastor of the Pittsgrove church. She was born October 24, 1727, and died June 2, 1807. They had five sons and two daughters, viz.: 1. Joel, born October 22, 1759, died June 29, 1805. Jeremiah, born November 22, 1760, died December 29, 1844, an eminent justice and legislator for many years; Sarah; Thomas; Samuel; Uriah; and Amey.

URIAH DU BOIS, youngest son of Peter and Amey (Greenman) DuBois, born in Pittsgrove township, February, 1768, became one of the most prominent preachers and educators in Bucks county. He received his academic education near the home of his ancestors in Orange county, New York, entered the University of Pennsylvania in 1787, and graduated in 1790. While a student there he boarded in the family of Robert Patterson, professor of mathematics and natural philosophy at the University, whose daughter Martha he later married. On his graduation he accepted a position as teacher in an academy at Charleston, South Carolina, where he spent one year. Returning to New Jersey he taught at Woodbury and Bordentown for three years, and then returned to Philadelphia to pursue his studies for the ministry under the Rev. Ashbel Green, D. D., afterwards president of Princeton. He was licensed to preach in 1796 and preached as a licentiate at Allentown, and at Deep Run and Red Hill in Bucks county. The Presbyterians of the latter two churches were pleased with him and he was elected their pastor in 1798. On June 20, 1798, he married Martha Patterson, and in December of the same year took up his pastoral labors in Bucks county, residing for one year at Dublin, and then removing to the parsonage farm near the Deep Run church, and preaching alternately at Red Hill and Deep Run. In 1804 the inhabitants of the growing village of Doylestown built an academy and invited Rev. DuBois to become its principal instructor. The congregations at both churches had decreased by the removal of the English settlers from that locality, and he decided to accept the offer and removed to Doylestown, meanwhile continuing his pastorate. He built a house, still standing at the north corner of State and Broad streets, in what was then a "two acre blackberry patch" and removed into it in 1805. He later built the house adjoining the academy and lived there from 1807 to 1814, and then removed back to the first home where he spent his remaining days. The builders of the academy had provided that religious services were to be held therein, and Mr. DuBois frequently preached there. This was the nucleus of the present Presbyterian church at Doylestown, which was organized in 1814 and the building dedicated in August, 1815. Rev. DuBois was a fine classical scholar and an excellent instructor. He was an assidous worker, and the infant academy and church both prospered under his guidance. He continued his work in both institutions as well as at Deep Run until his death, September 19, 1821. He was also clerk of the Orphans court of Bucks county for the last six years of his life, his eldest son Charles E. performing the clerical work. His wife Martha Patterson was also a native of New Jersey, being born in Carltown, Cumberland county, July 30, 1779. from whence her father moved to Philadelphia when she was a year old. She was a very estimable woman and a fitting helpmeet for the enthusiastic and struggling divine in a sparsely settled community, and a heroic wife and mother. She survived him many years, dying October 25, 1856. The children of Rev. Uriah and Martha (Patterson) DuBois were: Charles E., the grandfather of the subject of this sketch; Emilia, who married the Rev. Samuel Aaron, born 1803, and died 1830; Robert P., born, 1805, for many years pastor of the Presbyterian church at New London, Chester county, Pennsylvania, married Jane H. Latta; Samuel, born 1808, a noted local photographer and artist; William, born 1810, married Susanna Eckfeldt; Matilda, wife of the Rev. Silas M. Andrews, who succeeded his father-in-law as pastor of the Doylestown church and filled the pastorate for a half century; Louis, born 1814, married Henrietta Cox; and Mary, who married S. H. Thompson.

Charles E. DuBois, eldest child of Uriah and Martha, was born at the Deep Run parsonage, July 16, 1799. His family removing to Doylestown when he was five years of age, his youth and manhood was spent there. He was educated at the Union academy under his father's tuition, studied law under Abraham Chapman, Esq., and was admitted to the bar August 28, 1820. In 1823 he was commissioned clerk of the orphans' court and filled that position for six years, and in 1832 was appointed district attorney. He was an able and successful lawyer, and practiced in the Bucks county courts for forty years. In 1847 he was elected president of Doylestown National Bank, and filled that position until his death which occurred March 5, 1865. He was married to Mary S. Latta, daughter of Rev. John E. Latta, of New Castle, Delaware, by whom he had eleven children: John L., born April 16, 1832, died February 20, 1903; Samuel M., died 1859; Emma P., married Edward P. Flint, a merchant of San Francisco, California, died 1899; Helen M., living in Doylestown; James L., died in California in 1897; Charles, died in infancy; Louis P., died 1889; Mary L., living in Doylestown; Charles E., died 1867; Henry M., a practicing attorney in Philadelphia; and Edward M., died 1857.

JOHN L. DU BOIS, Esq., eldest son of Charles E. and Mary S. DuBois, was born in Doylestown, April 16, 1832. He attended school in Doylestown until 1847, when he went to Norristown, and attended an academy conducted by Rev. Samuel Aaron. He next attended a boarding school at New London, Chester county, kept by William F. Wyers, where he remained for one year, when he entered LaFayette College and graduated in 1852. Returning to Doylestown he read law with his father, and was admitted to the bar on February 4. 1856. He entered into partnership with his father, which continued until the death of the latter in 1865. He contiued the practice of law during the remainder of his life, handling many important civil and criminal cases, and settled some of the largest estates in Bucks county. He was an elder in the Presbyterian church and one of its most earnest workers for many years. He also held very many positions of trust, was president of the town council for three years, a director in the Doylestown National Bank, secretary and treasurer of the Doylestown Improvement Company, treasurer of the Doylestown Cemetery Company, and president of the Bucks County Bar Association. He was superintendent of the Presbyterian Sunday School for thirty-four years. He died at his home on Court street, Doylestown, on Friday, February 20, 1903. He married, June 11, 1863, Emma Rex, of Montgomery county, Pennsylvania, who survives him. His only surviving child is John L. DuBois, Junior.

JOHN L. DU BOIS, Jr., was born in Doylestown, June 30, 1873. He was educated at the public schools. Doylestown Seminary and at the William Penn Charter School, Philadelphia. He read law with his father and was admitted to the bar January 13, 1896; entered into partnership with his father, which continued until the death of the latter, and is one of the young enterprising members of the bar. He was married December 18, 1000, to Christiana, daughter of Dr. Samuel G. and Rachel Ann (Cadwallader) Price, of Doylestown. Their only child—John L., was born December 5, 1903.

JOSEPH DE BENNEVILLE ABBOTT, burgess of Bristol, Bucks county, Pennsylvania, is a native of the state, born in Philadelphia, (Tioga), June 28, 1866, eldest son of Francis and Julia (Churchman Shewell) Abbott. He is descended on his father's side from John Abbat (subsequently spelled by this ancestor, "Abbott") who came to America from Farnsfield, Nottingham, England, in 1684, and "settled a plantation on Crosswicks Creek," between Bordentown and Trenton, New Jersey, consisting at the time of his death in 1739 of eight hundred and ten acres. An active Friend, he took a prominent part in all that concerned the Chesterfield Meeting at Crosswicks, Burlington county, New Jersey. He was constable of Nottingham and surveyor of highways. In 1695 he married Anne Mauleverer, daughter of Edmund and Anne (Pearson) Mauleverer. She, like her husband, was an active Friend, an elder of the meeting, and prominent in all meeting interests, as the records indicate. She died in 1754. John and Anne (Mauleverer) Abbott had, with other issue,

Timothy Abbott, born in 1717, died 1776. He married Anne Satterthwaite. He succeeded to his father's estate in part, and was prominent like his parents in the Society of Friends. He was a merchant as well as farmer, and had vessels plying up and down the Delaware river to Philadelphia from the plantation on Crosswicks Creek, then a navigable stream for boats of, for those days, considerable draught. Timothy and Anne (Satterthwaite) Abbott had, with other issue,

John Abbott, born 1748, died 1809. He married Susannah Bulloch. He succeeded to his father's estate and was actively engaged in the business instituted by his father, continuing the mercantile phase of it until 1800, when his large land-holdings demanded all his attention. He took an active part in local public affairs and in those of the religious body to which he belonged. John and Susannah (Bulloch) Abbott had, with other issue,

Joseph Abbott, born 1779, died 1861. He married Anne Rickey. In his father's lifetime he moved to a portion of the original "Watson plantation," east of the Abbott homestead, and was a farmer. Joseph and Anne (Rickey) Abbott had, with other issue,

Timothy Abbott, born 1809, died 1882. He married Susan Conrad. In early life he was a merchant, then was long associated with Peter Cooper, and later with Cooper, Hewitt & Co., in the Iron business. He was president of the Mechanics' National Bank, Trenton, New Jersey. Timothy and Susan (Conrad) Abbott had, with other issue, Francis Abbott, born 1840. He married (first) Julia Churchman Shewell. Mr. Abbott entered the banking house of the late F. M. Drexel in February, 1857, and at this date (November, 1904) still holds an important position in the same house. Francis and Julia C. (Shewell) Abbott had, with other issue, Joseph de Benneville Abbott, mentioned at length hereinafter.

Through the pioneer ancestor, John Abbat, Dr. Abbott is descended from the Ingrams, Colvilles and Mauleverers, who successively, as named, were owners of Ingleby Arnecliffe, Yorkshire, England, an estate in existence as such since the middle ages. Through the Maulevers the descent may be traced back to nearly all of the Barons of Magna Charta, 1215. The ancestry of Anne Mauleverer Abbott is of unusual interest because of this fact. Edmund Mauleverer, the father of Anne, became a Quaker, and was apparently the only member of the family who changed his faith. The Mauleverers have been Church of England folk since the time of Henry VIII, and were previously Roman Catholics. Edmund's father was James, who married Beatrice, daughter of Sir Timothy Hutton. James' father was William, who married Eleanor, daughter of Richard Oldborough. William's father was Sir Edmund, who married Mary, daughter of Sir Christopher Danby. Sir Edmund's father was Robert, who married Alice, daughter of Sir Niman Markenfield. Roberts father was Sir William, (knighted at Flodden in 1513) who married Anne, daughter of Sir William Conyers, and through this line the descent from Edward III is readily traced. Sir William's father was Robert, who married Joan, daughter of Sir Henry Vavasour. Robert's father was Edmund, who married Alionara, daughter of Sir James Strangwayes. Edmund's father was Robert, who married Joan ——, and his father was Sir William Mauleverer, who married Joan de Colville, and succeeded to the Ingleby Arnecliffe estate. The marriage of Robert Mauleverer and Alice Markenfield linked the family to descent from eighteen of the Magna Charter barons, the descent having intermarried between 1215 and 1500. This descent in all its details is traced in the beautiful Marsshall-Clement chart published in 1904, to which the reader is referred. (Vide "Ingleby Arnecliffe and its Owners," by William Brown, Esq., Secretary of the Yorkshire Archaeological and Surtees Societies, Leeds, John Whitehead & Son, 1901.)

On his mother's side Dr. Abbott is descended from Walter Shewell, born near the village of Painswick, Glouces-of the United States. The postoffice served practically all of western Cook county and at first was located in the Ten Mile House, a tavern located at what is now Lake Street and First Avenue, Maywood, but later moved River Forest. From Chicago Yesterdays garnered by Caroline Kirkland about 1919, we read, "Ashbel STEELE, an early resident, had a fine team and sleigh, and two dogs with which he used to hunt wolves in the winter time over what is now the West Side. He took with him his wife and two little girls, well wrapped up in buffalo robes, and in his letters, now in the archives of the Chicago Historical Society, he described the thrill of the swift flight of his long-tailed team over the smooth, flat surface of the snowbound prairie. The dogs roused the wolves and ran them down, the STEELE family following the chase in their low sleigh."

The same article has STEELE describing coming upon the burial corpse of an Indian Chief, Big Thunder, and finding "Indian ladders" which were used by the Indians in that region to climb to the tops of trees for racoons and wild honey.

From pg. 31 of Vital Records from Chicago Newspapers. 1940-1842 -- ASHBEL STEELE´S third daughter, EUNICE ANN STEELE died 28 October 1841, age 9. Therefore, she was not included in 1850 Census and a second daughter, born about 1846, was then named Eunice.

From the Gem of the Prairie. 1844 -- 26 October married: on the 17th inst. by Rev. W. F. Walker, Mr. B. R. Sturges of Chicago, to Miss Ann DAWLEY of Rochester, NY (Western Citizen 24 October: Chicago Daily Journal 18 October and Chicago Weekly Journal 21 October reads: Yesterday, at STEELE´S on the O´Plain, and gives name - Benjamin R. Sturges)

From the Chicago Daily Journal 1845: 30 October married: by the Rev. Mr. Ryan, T. B. Botsford to Miss Francis H. DAWLEY (Chicago Weekly Journal, November 3)

On 22 August 1848, A. L. STEELE of Illinois was listed as a passenger on board the steamer G. P. Griffith on her trip from Buffalo (NY) to Chicago.

From the 1850 Census of Proviso Township in the county of Cook, state of Illinois, the following family is listed:

Some New Brunswick genealogical sources

By Sharon Dubeau

I have attempted to list the major New Brunswick sources for the family historian.

1. Provincial Archives, Box 6000, Fredericton, New Brunswick, E3B 5H1. The Archive will supply a Genealogical Records List for the county of your interest, which shows the dates and types of records available. The records listed therein may be borrowed through the interlibrary loan system. County records include probate records, some as early as 1785; marriage registers, some as early as 1790; church parish records; and scattered tax assessment records, local histories, deeds, cemetery transcriptions, newspapers, etc.[1]

2. New Brunswick Museum, 277 Douglas Avenue, Saint John, New Brunswick, E2K 1E5. This is the oldest record repository in New Brunswick. Its holdings include family and local histories, directories, and scrap books of clippings from old newspapers. All records are well indexed, and there is an Inventory of Manuscripts published in 1967 which is still available.

3. Department of Health, Vital Statistics Division, Box 6000, Fredericton, New Brunswick, E3B 5H1. This office has the records of birth, marriages and deaths. Complete registration began in 1920 with some registrations for the period from 1888-1920.

4. Department of Natural Resources, Lands Branch, Room 575, Box 6000, Fredericton, New Brunswick, E3B 5H1. From this office, one may obtain copies of the original land grants to the Loyalists, and grant reference maps, which show the location of the grants.

5. University of New Brunswick, Harriet Irving Library, Box 7500, Fredericton, New Brunswick, E3B 5H5. This library has manuscripts of some local family histories, and some early newspapers.

6. We Lived is a genealogical newsletter of New Brunswick sources, published quarterly, containing county sources, general data and a surname registry. Its publisher and editor is Mrs. Cleadie B. Barnett, R.R. 3, Oromocto, New Brunswick, E2V 2G3.

7. Societies include: New Brunswick Historical Society, 120 Union Street, Saint John, N.B., E2L 1A3; and the New Brunswick Genealogical Society, Box 3234, Station B, Fredericton, N.B., E3B 2W0.

7. For further information see New Brunswick History: A Checklist of Secondary Sources, by Hugh A. Taylor. This book is a bibliography of family and local histories found in the various record repositories in New Brunswick.

EDITOR'S NOTE

1. A full resource on New Brunswick source material in detail is Researching Your Ancestors in New Brunswick Canada, by Robert F. Fellows. Published in 1979 and available from the Generation Press book service this volume should be on every New Brunswick searcher's bookshelf.

which it was made & my sould into the hands of God that gave it."

After the burial had been completed, the tearful family and the respectful but stalwart group of mourners looked to a new day and to another opportunity to get on with the work of the Lord, and the completion of the plan that originally drove them to find a better living in the sanctity of a sinless society. The meeting-house with its victuals and drink beckoned the weary pallbearers to come and relax in their grief and to face the future. "Richard is gone. There is no power on earth that can bring him back. We must get on with the work of the Lord without him."

At this point, some may have concerned themselves with what was to become of the widow Seymour. Thomas was to inherit two steers and a cart. The Ruscoes and the Marvins would support the family in this time of despair. How soon would it be that John Steele would visit Mercy and propose marriage? Certainly sometime before the end of October, John and Mercy must have made plans for their joining together, which was recorded by Steele's own hand, on November 25, 1655.

The Inventory of Richard's Estate

THE ITEMS RECORDED as part of Richard Seymour's estate by Mathew Campfield and Richard Olmsted show more about the man than anything else on record. He was born the son of an artisan who left no will. Richard's grandfather, John Semare, whom we will discuss more fully later, of Pischiobury Manor in Sawbridgeworth, bequeathed an estate consisting of household goods, devoid of farm produce, implements, animals, and land. The grandson left a legacy for all of us to commend, one in which his wife Mercy should share. For the butter and cheese were of her labor, and the hemp and flax felt the grip of her rough fingers as they were spun into yarn. The corn and hay represented Richard's toil and that of Thomas; but the value of the animals is an inheritance that all can appreciate. These, plus the house, barn, outbuildings, lands in town and outside, were created "from whole cloth" by this good solid citizen.

Richard's honesty and integrity do not show in the inventory of his will, but these qualities can be deduced from the fact that he was elected to public office as a chimney viewer in Hartford, and then as a townsman in Norwalk. He was taken from his family when they needed him, before he could reap the rewards of his good life, which was above average compared with those of Englishmen of his status of the time.

In the next chapter we shall examine the origin of the Seymours in England and the birthplaces of Richard and Mercy in particular.

fell in love with her. The two were married in 1621, and she remained by his side as a loving wife and mother of their children. Mrs. Drake died in 1625, but by that time Hooker was thinking about furthering his career. His reputation as an honest Puritan cleric not connected with the theology of James I and Bishop Laud became apparent when he was chosen by Edward Winslow of the Plimoth Plantation to press the Plimoth position in a dispute over the scoundrel John Lyford, Minister for the Plimoth Company.

In 1627 the Reverend John Rogers of Dedham, Essex, tried to get Hooker a position at Colchester, but nothing came of the attempt. However, this led to the securing of a lectureship at Saint Mary's Church in Chelmsford, England, where he came to the notice of the earl of Warwick, a staunch Puritan. As time progressed Hooker's fame spread, and he attracted the attention of dozens of future New England émigrés. For instance, John Talcott lived in Braintree, just seven and a half miles north of Chelmsford. William Ruscoe lived even closer in Billericay, five and a half miles straight south through Great Baddow, where Hooker's daughter was baptized. Richard Seymour and the Roger Ruscoe family lived seventeen miles to the west on the Chelmsford-Hertford highway. John Steele and his brother George lived within a few miles of Chelmsford, but Hooker's reputation knew no bounds. John Webster of Cossington, a town three miles northeast of Leicester, and one hundred miles from Chelmsford, was an example of a Hooker follower who held a position of great responsibility in Connecticut.

While Hooker lectured at Chelmsford, his services were paid for by private subscription and therefore not under the control of the bishop, even though James I made a cautious attempt to limit deviationists. When Charles I took the throne, however, Bishop Laud carried out a plan to silence the revisionists. Laud's chancellor, Dr. Duck, urged caution in handling Hooker, whose following was so militant as to give Hooker special protection. Duck recommended a quiet disposition of the case, hoping that Hooker would fade away, but in 1631 a court at Chelmsford met and bound Hooker over to the High Commission. Hooker's bail of fifty pounds was put up by an agent of the earl of Warwick. Learning that he would probably be sent to jail where his words would fall on cold stone walls, Hooker decided to flee to Holland, for it was late in the season and there had been no direct word from the New England party who had preceded their leader and were just getting established in the Bay Colony. Trans-Channel trips could be arranged in secrecy, and Hooker had friends in the tolerant Netherlands who would take care of him and his family. The year was 1631. Just previous to this, Hooker had met with John Winthrop and his associates at the earl of Lincoln's estate in the company of John Cotton and Roger Williams. It is assumed that at that meeting proposals were made for Hooker to lead a group to the new colony. With a warrant for his arrest and the baying of Laud's human hounds sounding in his ears, Hooker fled from his hiding place in Old Park in Great Waltham, located twelve miles from the nearest deepwater Port of Maldon in Essex.

The vessel went aground en route to the Netherlands, and the crew and passengers grew nervous, fearing a shipwreck and/or capture. Hooker is said to have prayed to the Lord and asked for strength to see the voyage to a safe conclusion. once more we have reference to a Christ saving souls from the stormy sea, and Hooker's reputation grew with the successful passenger list. That the Websters came in high style can be deduced by the cash payments to John and Agnes for the sale of their properties. One source says that they had 1,000 pounds in cash on the ship, and as the bill of sale for their buildings and land amounted to 1,200 pounds, the difference of 200 pounds is absorbed as follows:

eight passages @ 6 pounds	48 pounds
food, clothing and supplies	152 pounds

John Webster had a veritable army of muscles when he sailed: Matthew, twenty-five; Thomas, eighteen; Robert, fifteen; and enough daughters to keep the farmyard in order, butter churned, flax spun, and the family well cared for. The Websters were well equipped to become a successful pioneer family by virtue of their effective numbers and substance.

A trio of families shared similar sentiments to those of the Websters, and in a mass family emigration, found strength and comfort in making the trip to America a joint venture. This group was composed of the Talcotts, the Steeles, and the Wadsworths, all related to each other by marriage. They later met the Seymours in Hartford, and would become more than friends as time passed.

John Talcott

JOHN TALCOTT, the pewterer of Braintree, died in 1604, mentioning his wife, Anne Skinner Talcott, in his will. His first child was a son named John, and the second a daughter, Rachel, who married John Steele of Fairsted, Essex County, on October 10, 1622. There are no baptismal dates for colonist John Talcott, but judging from the death of his father, and the fact that John was the eldest of six children, he must have been born between 1590 and 1596. When he and his wife Dorothy Mott Talcott, daughter of John and Alice (Harrington) Mott, sailed for New England with several of Hooker's Company on the Lion in 1632, John Talcott was a mature adult, and the positions of honor he received indicates he was a trusted public servant, intelligent, and respected by the settlers and the leadership of the movement. The proximity (ten miles) of Braintree England to the center of the Hooker citadel in Chelmsford is obvious. Talcott and his brother-in-law, John Steele, were men of similar background and led parallel lives after they had settled in New England.

What motives do we see in the movement of the Talcott family leaving Braintree for the "wilderness" of the best-laid-out town in New England, Newtown (Cambridge)? The vicar of Braintree is said to have been delighted to see the disorderly persons departing his parish under the leadership of the Reverend William Goodwin, and his contingent, known at first as the Braintree group (later known as of Mr. Hooker's Company, as has been mentioned). Religious fanaticism must have been the predominating influence that caused this trio of families to leave home. Completely under the spell of the mesmerist Thomas Hooker, the Talcotts and their relatives, after several years of contemplating removal had reached a fever pitch, and were left with no alternative but to pick up and go together in a great enterprise.

John Steele, Magistrate to Be

VERY LITTLE MATERIAL is available concerning the parentage, birth date, and other vital information concerning John Steele of Fairsted, Essex. This small hamlet is about five miles due south of Braintree. We do know that he was married October 10, 1622, to Rachel Talcott.

Their four children were born in England, first John, then Samuel, Daniel, and Rachel. In a declaration in a land inheritance case, John Steele, Jr., stated on June 6, 1685, that he was "fifty nighne years or there abouts." This would have placed his birth at 1626. The only definite date for the children is the baptism of Rachel on June 29, 1632. This was very close to the time when her uncles John Talcott and William Wadsworth tendered the oath of allegiance to "Captain Mason, xxij Junij 1632" as per Hotten's Original Lists of Persons of Quality. There is nothing of record showing how John Steele and his family sailed to New England. Perhaps they did sail on the Lion immediately following the christening of little Rachel. Taking the oath and sailing were not necessarily done simultaneously.

Most of the information we have relating to John Steele pertains to what he accomplished once he landed in New England. The precise contributions of John and his brother George will be described in another chapter. One can imagine that John Steele was a staunch Puritan as was his wife Rachel. There must have been some interesting discussions about making the pilgrimage between him and his brother-in-law, John Talcott, and William Wadsworth, who was related to him by marriage. As migratory birds when they gather before taking flight over water, the families must have conferred among themselves and their children, buoyed up by the prospects of a challenge to be experienced together.

The Emigration of Richard and Mercy Seymour

THERE IS A distinct difference in the emigration pattern of Richard Seymour when compared with that of the Talcotts, Steeles, and William Ruscoes. It took Richard and Mercy longer to decide to leave England than most others of the so-called Hooker Company. The precise date of their departure and the ship they voyaged on are unknown at this time. There were plenty of reasons why they were uncomfortable in the few years before they departed. Among them, as already suggested, were the lack of fuel, poor housing, and expensive food prices. However, the greatest single hardship the young couple had to face was the three deaths in the family: the aged widow Ruscoe in 1634; little Mary Seymour in 1635; and Richard's father Robert Seymour in 1637, at the height of the Puritan migration. The plague may have been the culprit, as it was rampant during these years.

The William Ruscoe departure and successful planting may have been the predominating influence in Richard's and Mercy's decision to leave home. With Richard's father Robert buried, the couple were able to depart with no loose ends to look after. There may also have been a small estate to provide passage money for the family of three. One wonders whether or not Richard Seymour would have emigrated if he had not been married to Mercy Ruscoe. Everything points to Mercy as being the moving force in making the determination to follow the contingent, already some three or four years ahead of this small family unit, who brought up the rear of the Puritan hegira.

We would like to think that at some time in Essex, William Ruscoe suggested to Richard and Mercy that they get to Chelmsford or some simi-

Governor Winthrop and his deputy, Thomas Dudley, appeared when different suggestions were proposed. At last a compromise was reached, and the majority started to settle in Newtown. However, no sooner had workmen notched the frames and bored out holes for the trunnels in Winthrop's house than he directed it be taken down and ferried across the river to Boston to be erected there.

Dudley wanted to have a strong central town, defensible and compact. This would have required the relocation of several planters from nearby locations. His hopes were dashed by the removal of Winthrop, and he never saw his scheme develop, as others stayed where they were, content to put as much space between themselves and others as possible.

The Obstreperous Braintree Company

AS MENTIONED EARLIER, the Steeles, Talcotts, Wadsworths, and the Goodwins of the Braintree area in England were anathema to the established vicar of the church he presided over. For longer than one might realize, the Puritan heresies had rankled this representative of the church supported by the Crown. The prelate wrote in 1632:

> It is no easy matter to reduce a numerous congregation into order that has been disorderly these fifty years, and for the last seven years been encouraged in that way by all refractory ministers of the country by private meetings and leaving schismatical books among them. These persons have laboured to make his person and ministry contemptible and odious, because he could not hold correspondence with them.[2]

The departure of the Braintree party for New England was therefore a welcome event. Led by the Reverend William Goodwin, the group arrived in Boston Harbor in June 1632 and settled temporarily in Mount Wollaston, formerly notorious because it was there that Thomas Morton set up a maypole for the Indians to share in revelry. A court order issued by the Bay Colony and dated August 14, 1632, required the resettlement of this party to Newtown, to help fill the empty lots in Dudley's town.

Within six months John Steele and others of this party had acquired sufficient land and houses to be assigned quotas of public fencing that they were required to provide. John's amount was more than double that of his brother George. In August 5, 1633, pasturage allocations provided John Steele with three roods (a rood being forty square rods or one quarter of an acre) and his brother George one half an acre.

The extent of John's property in Newtown was subsequential, as evidenced by the proprietor's records of the town in 1635:

> The 20th August 1635
> John Steele in the Towne one house with Garden and backside aboute halfe a Roode; Georg Steele one the north west Braintree street one the northeast Crooked street one the southeast William Wadsworth one the southwest.

John Steele's other properties were lands in "Cowyarde Rowe," "ould ffeild," "west end ffeild," "necke of Land," "oxe Marsh," "Longe Marsh," and "grete Marsh."

While in England the good people of the Braintree Company were gathering their belongings prior to boarding, the ship Griffin of 300 tons was preparing to sail from the Downs.[3] Three families wanted and sought by the pursuivants of Bishop Laud boarded under assumed names. They were, of course, the rebel

Men, Women, and Children

IT HAS BEEN RECORDED that about one hundred individuals were involved in the Hooker migration of May-June 1636, but this total seems small when one considers that there were said to be thirty-five families involved. From those of whom we have knowledge, namely the Hookers, the Talcotts, and the William Ruscoes, we can account for seventeen individuals, or an average of perhaps six per family. If this was typical, there would have been more than two hundred in all, following single file along the beaten track. It is certain that six is a high figure per family; perhaps the estimator lost count of the small children darting about among the animals, shooing them with switches in their hands toward the rendezvous.

The George Steele family kept close company with their in-laws the Talcotts and the William Wadsworths. Richard and James Olmsted were another pair of walkers. Thomas Bull, aptly named, was in charge of herding the cattle. Thomas Judd, whose son was to marry a daughter of John Steele, was part of the contingent. Matthew Allyn, whose decendant married into the Seymour family (or the other way around, depending on which side you are on), was one of this group. There is no record of trouble with weather; in any case, rains would have been bearable and not freezing. No mention is made of canvas shelters, but there is no reason that some protection from a downpour could not have been provided. A picture in William De Loss Love's original volume on the history of Hartford shows the Hooker procession filing through open woods by a body of water, Mrs. Hooker's litter horizontally supported by six men.

S. H. Clark, the imaginative artist, whose work has appeared in more than one historical volume, introduced three covered wagons, which may have been the product of his active mind. It would have been inconsistent to have Mrs. Hooker carried by six men of a party of thirty-five when she could have been accommodated in one of the wagons.[1] Horse litters did exist in the seventeenth century; they were elaborate covered affairs supported by two horses, one in front and the other in the rear. Such a system was far more practical in negotiating crude trails and streams where wheeled vehicles might find the passages too narrow, sloping, or boggy.

As soon as the welcome of the Windsor townspeople faded away, only one more day's march brought the tired but exhilarated group to their new homeland. Shouts of joy and excitement surely echoed throughout the small community, as friends embraced, children ran hither and yon, animals strayed and were rounded up—altogether a hectic few hours. Curiosity certainly consumed these newly arrived. John Steele and William Westwood in their capacity as local government probably acted as guides to show individuals where their land allotment was located. Houses which had been ordered the year before and which had been built by those who had spent the winter there were inspected. Most of the 1636 arrivals were given parcels on the south side of Little River, the original sixteen having built close to the palisade and the meetinghouse. (See map). At least the cattle were no great problem once they arrived at the cow pasture at the northern end of the plantation. Later, Richard Seymour would be allotted the last lot next to the pasture; its relatively small size, the result of his very late arrival in the community, was an important continued in their role of leadership from the moment of arrival at the plantation in Connecticut at Hartford. The term "plantation" refers to a political unit in which "inhabitants" have a proprietary interest. At a meeting a moderator was chosen, motions proposed and voted upon, with committees appointed to see that the motions were carried out. When the plantation had grown to the point where the complexities of running and governing it warranted it, a body was elected to serve as townsmen or selectmen, who carried out specific duties and conducted the affairs of the town as proposed and voted by the franchised members. At this point, with the approval of the colonial government, the plantation changed its status to that of town.

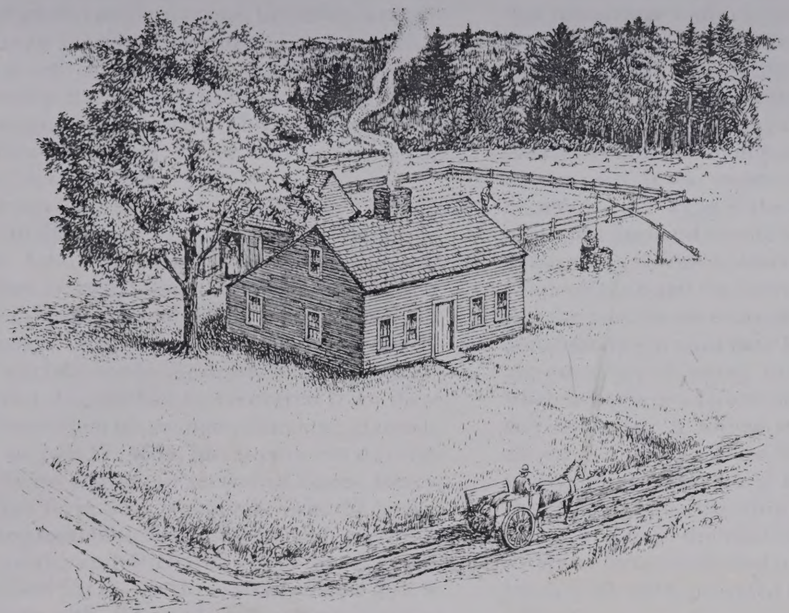
Without authority of the General Court, but in anticipation of obtaining the status of a town, the voters at the meeting of September 1639 appointed John Steele as register or town clerk and bade him list all town lands according to ownership. A further meeting in October of the same year expanded the order to include the preparation and maintenance of a ledger book, an alphabetical index, and a record of houses as well as lands. In the April meeting of 1640 John Steele produced 114 different sheets describing individual parcels of land. The status of township was officially recognized when the General Court authorized Hartford to choose its own officers and provide for the election of a town clerk or register.

An event took place in the May session of the General Court which laid the foundation for the first constitution of Connecticut. Thomas Hooker delivered a sermon on the long-appreciated philosophy of a government established within bounds set by the people. His words reminded his audience of what they had been practicing: that where the people have the power to appoint magistrates, they also have the right to limit the power of the elected. At a General Court of January 1639 the towns of Wethersfield, Hartford, and Windsor had been represented. Springfield was not, as it was claimed to be under the jurisdiction of Massachusetts. What was then termed a "court session" was in actuality a constitutional convention. By adopting the constitution, the rights of the inhabitants were suspended until they took an oath of fidelity and were made freemen. After that they could vote for the governor and magistrates, and April 11, 1639, marks the first date that such an event took place. To provide the new commonwealth with a copy of all penal and general laws of record, Messrs. Wyllys, Webster, and Spencer were appointed to review and report them to the secretary. These laws were then to be published in each town at a public meeting, and read once each year. The disposition of unassigned lands was withheld from the towns until a later order returned this right to them, provided the owners were formed into a body of proprietors. This order excluded later inhabitants from sharing equally with lands distributed among the original proprietors whenever such distributions took place.

John Steele, Town Clerk and Troubleshooter

WITH EXPERIENCE AS a magistrate appointed by the General Court of the Bay Colony to his credit, John Steele was recognized by his fellow settlers when the 1636 term expired. He served as a member of the committee, later called a deputy, continuously from the ses-



The Seymour Home Lot in Norwalk, 1655

He left New England and returned to his homeland with his reputation somewhat tarnished. He had also lost a slander suit in a witchcraft case. One can imagine that tension increased in Norwalk at this act, for the man responsible for getting them to settle in Norwalk in the first place had now left them for the security of his homeland. He returned, incidentally, to an England that was different from the England he had left some years before with his Dorchester Company, now that Oliver Cromwell had replaced Charles II and become Protector of the Commonwealth. As a parting gesture, Ludlow turned back the lot reserved for him in Norwalk, which he had acquired as part of the original agreement. Now the town could pass this property along to a candidate, and one was found. From the Hunt map and the one shown on page 39 of Selleck's Norwalk we can deduce that John Ruscoe was the lucky person to receive such a centrally located site, just south of the Reverend Thomas Hanford's land.

Early in 1655 Richard Seymour was elected townsman, the equivalent of today's selectman. He was not to live very much longer, as we learned in Chapter 1. His life cut short just as he had begun to enjoy the rewards of accomplishment, he left the task of completing what he started to his sons, and in Norwalk, especially to Thomas, his firstborn and heir. The person most affected by the death of Richard Seymour was his wife, for before the end of the year her entire life was forever altered, and from the depths of despair came new hope and a comfortable life with the companionship of an old friend.

The Marriage of the Widow Seymour and the Honorable John Steele

IN RECAPITULATION, Chapter 1 described the illness of Richard Seymour, his signing of the will on July 29, 1655, and his subsequent burial, but what was not mentioned was the sudden marriage of the widow Mercy Ruscoe Seymour to the Honorable John Steele, widower, on November 25, 1655, in Farmington. The Steeles and Seymours had certainly been thrown together in Hartford. With a town of such limited size and population, and the Sabbath services compulsory and intimate, it would have been impossible for Mercy and John Steele not to have developed a recognition of each other's qualities. Perhaps he and his brother-in-law, John Talcott, helped with the election of Richard Seymour as chimney viewer. This was a minor job but an elective one. Certainly, a candidate must have had backing to be successful.

It is entirely possible that the Seymour-Steele friendship started back in Essex County before the emigration took place. This of course is pure conjecture. Lacking diaries and letters, it can never be confirmed.

At any rate, both Mercy and John needed a mate to fill the gaps in their families caused by death. John Steele especially needed help and comfort. In 1646 his son Daniel had died, and in 1653 three family tragedies occurred in quick succession. First his eldest son and heir died. This was followed by the death of his wife Rachel (Talcott). Hardly had he recovered from these two losses when his youngest daughter, Hannah, died on July 17, 1655, just twenty-two days before Richard Seymour's terminal illness. Mercy, with her three boys, would take over the housekeeping tasks of the Steele household, and John, Zachariah, and Richard would have Lydia, Mary, and Sarah, the three young Steele girls to associate with. The eldest two were married within two years, both on March 31, 1657, Lydia to James Bird and Mary to William Judd, both of Farmington. Sarah also married a Judd, one Thomas of Farmington, proving that being thrown together in a small community often results in marriage because of the limitations of choice.

Mable Hurlburt, in her Farmington Town Clerks and Their Times, expresses the opinion on page 22 that Richard Seymour had died one month before the wedding of the widow Mercy and the Honorable John Steele.[3] The only ground for this statement is the date of the inventory of Richard's estate, October 25, 1655, but there is no evidence that the inventory was taken on the same day as his death and burial.

People in the twentieth century may believe that remarriage within a year indicated a lack of respect and love for the deceased and suggests a money-hungry widow on the lookout for a breadwinner. In the seventeenth century, however, and especially among the Puritans to whom the family unit was so important, this was not at all the case. It was expected and indeed held imperative that a gap in the family caused by the death of a husband or wife be filled as soon after death as practicable. Moreover, death was so commonplace and the average life span so short that the possible necessity of rearrangement and accommodation must have been on the minds of almost every thinking individual, especially when sickness or a serious accident indicated the end was near. A widow was to be protected, almost as a public service. She had no means to survive in an agricultural economy; therefore, the instinct of guardianship must have been very strong in a male-dominated society.

When John Steele died in 1665, his will dated January 30, 1633, provided for his wife Mercy as follows:

John Steele's Will (Selected portions)

The Descendants of Richard and Mercy Seymour

GEORGE DUDLEY SEYMOUR and Donald Lines Jacobus published the most extensive book on the Seymour family in 1939. The mass of dates, names, and relationships, not to mention historical references of important positions, deeds, and honors, can hardly be matched or improved upon for its completeness. The material contained in the next few pages is merely meant to highlight the names of the first three generations of Seymours and to show how the different branches moved from the original Norwalk site and spread out at Farmington and Hartford. For those who have not heard of or been able to acquire a copy of the Seymour-Jacobus volume, the material in this chapter may be sufficient. With few exceptions, we cite The Seymour Family by the two above-mentioned authors as sources of information.

A rough tabulation of the number of descendants covering the first four generations discloses numbers which probably are typical of other families. In making this listing, we have included only the first generation following the marriage of a female Seymour. Hence, the total is minimal.

Descendants of Richard and Mercy Seymour
first generation	6
second generation	27
third generation	129
fourth generation	423

The time period covered is 1632-1762, or 130 years. With five generations counting the primary, the average generation span was 26 years, and a total of 585 persons with some Seymour blood in their veins. The rate of increase certainly has slowed up, and there is no point in trying to estimate the present number of living

John Seymour

JOHN SEYMOUR$_3$ (Thomas$_2$, Richard$_1$) followed his father and grandfather and lived all his life in Norwalk. He had one son, John$_4$, by his wife Sarah Gregory, as well as four daughters. He married secondly Hannah (Higinbotham Gold), widow of John Gold, Jr., who bore him a daughter, Martha. From the two marriages of this John$_3$ sprang six Seymour grandsons and eight Beldens, three Hanfords, eleven Jarvises, six Sellecks, nine Trowbridges, and three Whitneys, not to mention three Boutons and one Starr. Two of John's$_4$ sons, John$_5$ and James$_5$, married girls named Rebecca Keeler. James's$_5$ wife was a direct descendant of the builder Ralph Keeler, who had befriended Richard the Colonist (1651-55) in helping erect his house. (An interesting example of how blood lines intertwine after four generations is furnished in the person of Ruth Seymour before she married Dr. Elisha Smith.)

One wonders what Richard$_1$ would have thought about the multiplicity of his progeny. Certainly America was the land of plenty. Strong men and women were needed to meet the battle for freedom from the English in the next generation. The rolls of the Connecticut militia were to be filled with Seymours in various capacities, some to command, and others to follow orders.

With few exceptions, Thomas$_2$ Seymour's descendants remained in or close to Norwalk. His three younger brothers who moved with their mother to Farmington grew up closer to the center of Connecticut politics, and many of their offspring lived a somewhat different life than the coastal Seymours.

John Seymour

JOHN$_2$ SEYMOUR (Richard$_1$), of Hartford, Connecticut (probably born there), outlived his much older brother Thomas$_2$ by only a year or so. He married Mary Watson, daughter of John and Margaret (Smith) Watson of Hartford. In 1865, Thomas Watson, in a genealogical article on his family printed for the U.Q. Club, mentions that one Peggy Smith fell overboard from the vessel transporting her to New England, and John Watson jumped after her and saved her life.[4] They were married as soon as they reached shore.

The young couple lived a long and fruitful life, producing four boys and five girls. The two eldest were males, of potential help in the business of farming, but their father had to wait many years for all nine to grow up, as their births were spread over eighteen years. Zachariah, the youngest, was born when his father was forty-two. During his lifetime John accumulated many different lots of land and was able to set up his four sons with buildings and farm lots.

John$_3$, the eldest, who married Elizabeth Webster, the granddaughter of Governor John Webster and the daughter of Lt. Robert and Susanna (Treat) Webster, virtually flooded the Connecticut countryside with Seymours, borne by his two wives, Lydia Mason and Hannah Ensign. Timothy, the second child, married Rachel Allyn, and this family connection was to be repeated in later generations. It is interesting to note that Rachel Allyn's mother was one Rachel Steele, daughter of George Steele and niece of John Steele.

The eldest daughter, Mary$_3$, married John North a widower. Of their eight children Margaret married Joseph Woodruff, Ruth married Isaac Cowles, Jr., Josiah married Temperance Baldwin, and Samuel married Lois Porter. At that time diseases often carried away the young, and apparently unprotected by the immunities which protected their long-lived parents, Zachary, Jonathan, and Nathaniel all died in childhood.

Margaret, the youngest girl, married first Timothy Root, who died in Cape Breton, some distance from Connecticut. Of her three children, Timothy also died there at the age of thirty-three. If she had moved to Cape Benton she must have returned, as she married secondly John Rew of Farmington six years after the death of her first husband.

Richard$_3$, John$_2$, and Mary Seymour's fifth child, married Mary Wilson, the daughter of a deacon named John Wilson. This Mary Wilson, unlike another of the same name marrying a Seymour (the author's wife), bore no children. It was one of the few Seymour marriages not blessed with offspring.

Zachariah$_3$, the John$_2$ Seymour's youngest child, of Hartford, married Hannah Olmsted, the great-granddaughter of James Olmsted. He was elected collector of the South Side in 1711 and was an inspector of cutting wood on the commons for five different years. He was selectman in 1724 and a sergeant of the Hartford Train Band. His first child, Hannah, married Capt. Jacob Hinsdale, and they settled in Harwinton sixteen miles west of Farmington on lands inherited from Barnabas Hinsdale, father of the groom. They populated the area with ten Hinsdale children. The fifth generation from the Hinsdale union married into the Brace, Goodwin, Cook, Hopkins, Judd, and Allen families.

Zachariah$_4$, the oldest son of Zachariah$_3$ and Hannah Seymour, married Sarah Steele, descended from George Steele, John Steele's brother, John Steele being the second husband of Mercy Seymour. This couple seem to have set a record in trying to produce a male heir. After the birth of eleven daughters who bore seventy-two children during their married lives, they at last succeeded in producing a boy who was named after his father. Zachariah$_5$ Seymour, born at Hartford in 1759, had five children, the last one of these, Mary, taking her first breath of life in Canandaigua, New York, on July 2, 1822. In the vernacular, this was a "fur piece" in time and distance from the first Seymour homes built in Hartford and Norwalk almost one hundred years before.

Summary

RETURNING TO John$_2$ (Richard$_1$) Seymour, it is evident from the inventory of his estate that a series of favorable factors enabled him to leave an estate four and a half times greater than that of his father. First, there was the initiative John possessed that drove him to acquire one plot of land after another and to develop each section to its fullest potential. Second, he had good health, and in the hazardous and strenuous occupation of farming that quality was essential. Third, he matured at a time and in a place where expansion was a key element. New plantations were being established in former blocks of wilderness. Plantations became towns, and goods and services were more available than they had been during the first settling period of 1650-60. Initially John had little assistance in farming from his firstborn sons, but with time they too matured, were able to work, and acquired property from their father. A listing of John$_2$ Seymour's estate, copied from the original by James Allen Libbe in 1911, reveals the extent of his landholdings.

Inventory of Lands of John$_2$ Seymour (Richard$_1$)

To the house John lives in & 12 acres Land	160-00-00
To the house Tho did live in & 2 acres Land	190-00-00
To the house and barn & 17 acres land on The east Side farmington Road	210-00-00

Too 100 acres of Land att four mile hill	043-00-00
To house Richard lives in & y^e homelott	100-00-00

It is evident that land values in the vicinity of Hartford were much greater than in Norwalk, judging from the estate inventories of the two brothers, John$_2$ and Thomas$_2$ Seymour, taken within a year or so of each other.

The Family of Zachariah Seymour of Wethersfield

ZACHARIAH$_2$ (Richard$_1$) Seymour, the third son of the Colonist, married late in life, at age forty-five. His wife, Mary Gritt, bore him four daughters and, upon his death, married secondly Joseph Hollister. Zachariah's estate in no way compares with that of his brothers, being £200 compared with Thomas's £351, Captain Richard's £416, and the amazing £1,158 of his brother John. Obviously, Zachary, as he was called by some, was slow to mature and what we might term "a quiet one." His eldest daughter, Mary, born in 1689, married Henry Grimes and had three children. Zachariah's next child, Elizabeth, married Gideon Belding, and this

The Probate Court for said County:

In the Matter of the Estate of ALBIN A FROBERG, DECEASED.

I, Anna L. Vonsar, respectfully represent that I am the widow of Al L. Vonsar, deceased, administrator of said estate. That further probating was dropped, after learning said Estate should never have been probated because all real and personal estate was jointly held. No further procedure being thought necessary by the deceased Administrator.

I now learn as far as the Berrien County Probate Court is concerned, has not been properly closed. In order to close said estate I, Anna L. Vonsar, widow of Al L. Vonsar, deceased, administrator do hereby swear that all real and personal estate, goods, chattels, rights, credits and estate of said deceased have remained in the possession of the deceased estate's widow, Mrs. Albin A. Froberg of 943 Columbus Ave., Benton Harbor, Michigan.

That the funeral expenses and cost of last sickness of said deceased, the expenses of administering said estate, and all claims against said estate have been paid, and I know Al L. Vonsar, deceased, completed the administration of said estate.

As widow of administrator Al. L. Vonsar, deceased, I Anna L. Vonsar therefore pray that this affidavit be allowed as his final account, ~~that the residue of said estate has been assigned to the widow, Mrs. Albin A. Froberg~~.

Therefore I pray the official bond be cancelled and letters of administration heretofore granted be revoked and annulled.

Dear Joan: Thank you so much for the invitation to the reunion. Whether I will be there or not, I cannot say. We were planning on coming to Michigan in August but this will be the firt long trip since my husband had a double heart surgery. So far we just made it to the coast with the trailer. I plan on starting out but as I said I may have to turn back. It has been a hectic year and sure do not know where the time has gone as have been real busy.

So you had four boys, well I had four girls. Here is a little rundown of my life up until now. After Lu was killed I bought a house here in California and thought I would never return to Michigan but after three years my folks persuaded me to bring the children back there. I remarried and that did not turn out too good so after a while I took the girls and we moved back to California. This is where I met my present husband, Veydon, and we have been married for 26 years now. When we got married, I had the four girls and he had two girls and a boy. The kids were all about the same age. When we went to the coast or the mountains we took two cars. But eventually the kids either got married or went off to school and were left alone.

Ann, my oldest girl, lives here in Fresno and is married to a very nice guy. Ann is in Administration for the County of Fresno. She is a psychologist and is now studying at the University here for her doctorate. She has a girl and a boy and both are married and the boy has a son (my greatgrandson) and the girl has has cute little girl (my greatgrandaughter) Boy are they ever precious too. Ann's husband, Jeff, is a math and science teacher here at one of the high schools. Her daughter, Tami and her husband, own a business to prepare homes that are newly built for the market.

Barbara, the second oldest, lives in Kenai, Alaska and is an accountant. Her three children live in Anchorage and are not married, Barbara says they are more interested in earning a million before they are thirty instead of giving her a grandchild. We expect her and her husband, Jerry, in October. Jerry is the superintendent at the place in Alaska that inspects the oil pipeline. They are in the process of building a log cabin. The log cabins there are nothing like Abe Lincoln lived in. The kids all work in Alaska--Amy is an accountant at a welding school, Gary is a draftsman and Mike works on the refrigeration for a big fish company.

Mary, the next down the line, is a highschool teacher in Altamont, Utah and is a home ec teacher and girl's counselor there. I swear that place is at the end of the world but she likes it there. She has a mobile home there and the school is only two blocks from her place. There is only 300 people in the whole town. She joined the Mormon Church about 12 years ago and went to BYU in Provo. Her and Barbara do a lot of geneology work and have found out a lot of interesting things.

As a matter of fact, they found out I have relatives there in Berrien County which I never knew. Whether I look them up or not at this late date in life I don't know yet.

Bonnie, my youngest, was killed in South Haven in 1972 around Christmas and is buried there in a cemetery. She was killed in an automobile accident. She has always wanted to go back to Michigan so when she and Ed got married they decided to move back there. Being both kids were totally deaf we followed them the next month to see that they were all okay. Both had found good jobs and everything was going well with them. Bonnie had won several scholorships at the School for the Deaf in Berkeley and used them to get her schooling in the computer field which started out at that time with key punch and stuff like that. Ed was not familiar with the ice on the roads back east being a California boy and one day they were on there way to visit my mother and they crashed and she was killed. I had retired from my state job at the time we came back to see them but my doctor and everyone advised me it would be better to go back to work. I was a secretary for the State Water Resources Control Board in Fresno and liked my job real well. I went back and retired about five years ago permanently. The hurt is still there about Bonnie as she was a brilliant student in spite of her handicap and worked with hearing people here in Fresno and in Kalamazoo.

Myself, I worked as a grocery checker and bookkeeper at the Hardings Market in Kalamazoo and after Veydon and I got married and the kids all went their way I went and took a refresher course on my shorthand and typing and went to work for the government. I liked it real well and kind of missed it the first year. My husband also worked for the state and was a highway engineer in the Fresno office. He has been retired longer than I have. We do a lot of traveling with our trailer and also to other countries. All in all we keep very busy. Last year, of course, had to slow down because of his operation. He is doing a lot better now but still has to have regular checkups and X-rays and is on a strict medicine schedule. I thought he would be off of it this year but the doctor's say no as his EKG was a little off again so we decided to make this trip as I want to see my mother (Mrs. Knapp) Seems like a nephew of her husband has taken over and does not want me to know where she is and all that. I do not want her money but I do want it to be of good use for her. I finally traced her to the Jordon's Nursing Home in Bridgeman and when my daughters were back there my mother had them take her there to see an old friend and they said it was nice but I would feel better if I could see for myself. I send cards, letters and flowers but as she is 96 and cannot write I do not get a word whether she gets them or not. I believe she is still alive so want to investigate that myself and hope I can find out. Funny what money can do to some people.

Well Joan guess I had better close for now but sure was surprised to get your letter and sure wish I could be sure we would be there at that date as I would like to see everyone too. It has been an awful long time. Thanks again and tell everyone hello for me.

Love

Iva

MY ANCESTORS

If you could see your ancestors
  All standing in a row
Would you be proud of them or not
  Or don't you really know?
Some strange discoveries are made
  In climbing family trees
And some of them you know, do not Particularly please.

If you could see your ancestors
  All standing in a row
There might be some of them perhaps
  You wouldn't care to know.
But there's another question, which Requires a different view.
If you could meet your ancestors
  Would they be proud of you?

Dear Joan: Thank you so much for the invitation to the reunion. Whether I will be there or not, I cannot say. We were planning on coming to Michigan in August but this will be the firt long trip since my husband had a double heart surgery. So far we just made it to the coast with the trailer. I plan on starting out but as I said I may have to turn back. It has been a hectic year and sure do not know where the time has gone as have been real busy.

So you had four boys, well I had four girls. Here is a little rundown of my life up until now. After Lu was killed I bought a house here in California and thought I would never return to Michigan but after three years my folks persuaded me to bring the children back there. I remarried and that did not turn out too good so after a while I took the girls and we moved back to California. This is where I met my present husband, Veydon, and we have been married for 26 years now. When we got married, I had the four girls and he had two girls and a boy. The kids were all about the same age. When we went to the coast or the mountains we took two cars. But eventually the kids either got married or went off to school and were left alone.

Ann, my oldest girl, lives here in Fresno and is married to a very nice guy. Ann is in Administration for the County of Fresno. She is a psychologist and is now studying at the University here for her doctorate. She has a girl and a boy and both are married and the boy has a son (my greatgrandson) and the girl has has cute little girl (my greatgrandaughter) Boy are they ever precious too. Ann's husband, Jeff, is a math and science teacher here at one of the high schools. Her daughter, Tami and her husband, own a business to prepare homes that are newly built for the market.

Barbara, the second oldest, lives in Kenai, Alaska and is an accountant. Her three children live in Anchorage and are not married, Barbara says they are more interested in earning a million before they are thirty instead of giving her a grandchild. We expect her and her husband, Jerry, in October. Jerry is the superintendent at the place in Alaska that inspects the oil pipeline. They are in the process of building a log cabin. The log cabins there are nothing like Abe Lincoln lived in. The kids all work in Alaska--Amy is an accountant at a welding school, Gary is a draftsman and Mike works on the refrigeration for a big fish company.

Mary, the next down the line, is a highschool teacher in Altamont, Utah and is a home ec teacher and girl's counselor there. I swear that place is at the end of the world but she likes it there. She has a mobile home there and the school is only two blocks from her place. There is only 300 people in the whole town. She joined the Mormon Church about 12 years ago and went to BYU in Provo. Her and Barbara do a lot of geneology work and have found out a lot of interesting things.

As a matter of fact, they found out I have relatives there in Berrien County which I never knew. Whether I look them up or not at this late date in life I don't know yet.

Bonnie, my youngest, was killed in South Haven in 1972 around Christmas and is buried there in a cemetery. She was killed in an automobile accident. She has always wanted to go back to Michigan so when she and Ed got married they decided to move back there. Being both kids were totally deaf we followed them the next month to see that they were all okay. Both had found good jobs and everything was going well with them. Bonnie had won several scholorships at the School for the Deaf in Berkeley and used them to get her schooling in the computer field which started out at that time with key punch and stuff like that. Ed was not familiar with the ice on the roads back east being a California boy and one day they were on there way to visit my mother and they crashed and she was killed. I had retired from my state job at the time we came back to see them but my doctor and everyone advised me it would be better to go back to work. I was a secretary for the State Water Resources Control Board in Fresno and liked my job real well. I went back and retired about five years ago permanently. The hurt is still there about Bonnie as she was a brilliant student in spite of her handicap and worked with hearing people here in Fresno and in Kalamazoo.

Myself, I worked as a grocery checker and bookkeeper at the Hardings Market in Kalamazoo and after Veydon and I got married and the kids all went their way I went and took a refresher course on my shorthand and typing and went to work for the government. I liked it real well and kind of missed it the first year. My husband also worked for the state and was a highway engineer in the Fresno office. He has been retired longer than I have. We do a lot of traveling with our trailer and also to other countries. All in all we keep very busy. Last year, of course, had to slow down because of his operation. He is doing a lot better now but still has to have regular checkups and X-rays and is on a strict medicine schedule. I thought he would be off of it this year but the doctor's say no as his EKG was a little off again so we decided to make this trip as I want to see my mother (Mrs. Knapp) Seems like a nephew of her husband has taken over and does not want me to know where she is and all that. I do not want her money but I do want it to be of good use for her. I finally traced her to the Jordon's Nursing Home in Bridgeman and when my daughters were back there my mother had them take her there to see an old friend and they said it was nice but I would feel better if I could see for myself. I send cards, letters and flowers but as she is 96 and cannot write I do not get a word whether she gets them or not. I believe she is still alive so want to investigate that myself and hope I can find out. Funny what money can do to some people.

Well Joan guess I had better close for now but sure was surprised to get your letter and sure wish I could be sure we would be there at that date as I would like to see everyone too. It has been an awful long time. Thanks again and tell everyone hello for me.

Love

Iva

RE: FROBERG, ALBIN A. AR 4 716 172

THE REPLY TO THE INQUIRY WILL BE FOUND IN THE CHECKED ITEM(S). IF YOU WRITE TO US AGAIN ON THIS SUBJECT, PLEASE RETURN YOUR ORIGINAL REQUEST, THIS FORM, AND ANY OTHER FORM YOU COMPLETE.

☐ Copies of requested military ☐ personnel ☐ medical records are attached. We suggest you make an extra copy and guard against loss or damage. We regret if any photocopies may be of poor quality, but they are the best copies obtainable.

☐ The attached separation document may include the following information: authority for separation, reason for separation, Reenlistment Eligibility Code, and Separation (SPN/SPD) Code. If you require a copy of the separation document that does not contain the above information, you may request a deleted copy from this Center.

☐ The Privacy Act of 1974 does not permit the release of a social security number or other personal information to the public without the authorization of the veteran concerned; therefore, we have deleted personal identifying data relating to other persons.

☐ The record of service in the ________ indicates being in a POW status from ________________ to ________________.

☐ When the person named above was separated, it was not the practice to issue a document which served as a report of separation.

☐ The original Report of Separation was issued at the time of separation. Another original cannot be issued. The attached copy, however, will serve the same purpose as the original.

☐ No Report of Separation was issued since the person named above had no active service, or less than 90 days of active duty for training.

☐ The service record of the person named above does not contain a copy of a Report of Separation, or its equivalent. Therefore, we are instead furnishing the attached NA Form 13038, Certification of Military Service. This will serve as verification of military service and may be used for any official purpose.

☐ The record needed to answer your inquiry was filed in the area that suffered the most damage in a fire here on July 12, 1973, and was damaged/partially destroyed. The specific document or information requested was not contained in the records that were recovered from the burned area.

☑ The record needed to answer your inquiry is not in our files. If the record were here on July 12, 1973, it would have been in the area that suffered the most damage in the fire on that date and may have been destroyed.

Fortunately, alternate records sources often contain information that can be used to reconstruct service record data lost in the fire.

☑ The information used to prepare the attached NA Form 13038, Certification of Military Service, was obtained from an alternate records source. This certificate will serve as verification of military service and may be used for any official purpose.

☐ The enclosed copies of documents were obtained from an alternate records source.

☑ However, complete records cannot be reconstructed.

☑ ~~However~~, We regret that these sources do not contain the particular type of information or document requested. Geneological Data

☐ We will attempt to obtain the required information from these alternate records sources if you will assist us by completing the attached NA Form 13075, Questionnaire About Military Service, to the best of your ability.

☐ In attempting to provide information from alternate records sources concerning illness or injury while in military service, we need additional information as to the approximate dates of illness or injury and the specific organization assignments (company, battalion, regiment, division, group, etc.) at that time. Please complete the attached NA Form 13055, to the best of your ability.

When we receive the necessary data we shall promptly make every effort to reconstruct the requested information using the resources available.

☐ That portion of your request seeking medals/awards has been referred to the office checked below. That office has jurisdiction over the issuance of medals/awards. Any further correspondence on this subject should be addressed to that office.

☐ ARPERCEN, Attn: DARP-PAS-EAW ☐ Navy Liaison Office, Room 3475, N-314 9700 Page Blvd., St. Louis, MO 63132

☐ The medical records you request ☐ The documents you request pertaining to discharge have been lent to the Veterans Administration and may be obtained from the VA office shown below.

☐ According to the provisions of DoD Directive 5400.11, we cannot release a portion of the medical records you have requested. They contain information that can be interpreted and explained properly only by a physician. If you wish us to send copies to a designated physician, please furnish us with the name and address of that physician. The request MUST INCLUDE the service person's written consent (signature), authorizing the release of the records to the designated physician.

☑ Entered service at St. Joseph, Michigan. Discharged at Camp Custer, Michigan. Born Oct 12, 1896. Died July 16, 1926.

BROTHER W. J. FROBERG DIES

Albin Froberg, 29, brother of W. J. Froberg, local merchant and prominent twin city singer, died Friday morning at 7:24 o'clock at his home, 948 Columbus avenue, where he had been ill for about a week.

The deceased is survived by his widow and infant daughter, Frances Rose, aged six months, in his immediate family. He also leaves his mother, Mrs. O. Froberg, his brother, W. J. Froberg, and a sister, Mrs. A. L. Von Sar, in this city, and two brothers, Arthur and Harvey Froberg, in Elkhart, Ind.

Mr. Froberg was employed as city salesman for the Standard Oil Co., and by means of his pleasant personality made scores of local friends and business acquaintances.

He was born Oct. 12, 1896. For the past 20 years he has been a resident of this city.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Methodist Peace Temple. Rev. W. W. Slee will officiate. Burial will be in the Crystal Springs cemetery.

Mr. Froberg's death was due to quinsy and acute inflammation of the kidneys, according to Dr. C. N. Sowers.

MARGARETE DOMBROW

In loving memory of my dear wife and mother, who passed away one year ago today, January 21, 1924.

A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still;
But death has left a loneliness
This world can never fill.
We think of you, as one who sleeps,
All free from grief and pain
And know the happy days will come
When we shall meet again.
Husband and Daughter.

GUSTAVE DOMBROW IS WHITE PLAGUE VICTIM

Gustave Dombrow, Jr., who resided at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Dombrow, near here, died Sunday night at 11 o'clock of tuberculosis. He was born May 25, 1892, in Chicago.

Mr. Dombrow was in the auditing department of the Illinois Central R.R. for a number of years, and his conscientious work brought him many promotions and made for him a host of friends.

Two and one-half years ago Mr. Dombrow's wife died of the same disease, after the couple had traveled through New Mexico and Arizona, hoping to benefit her health. Surviving is one daughter, Iva, 3½ years old.

Mr. Dombrow is also survived by his parents; one brother, Clarence, of Bridgman; two sisters, Mrs. Clara Lippert of Bridgman, and Mrs. Elsie Stone of Chicago.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday at 1:30 o'clock at the home and at 2:30 at the Zion Evangelical Church at Baroda. The Rev. C. Seidenberg, pastor, officiating.

Burial took place in the Baroda cemetery.

CHICAGO, July 16.—Despite heavy profit-taking sales, wheat today rose to a maximum of 4⅝c a bushel above yesterday's finish. Increasing crop damage reports from northwestern states together with high temperatures and absence of rain there led at times to something of a stampede to buy and December delivery touched a new high price record for the season. Top quotations for the day, however, were not held, some experts contending that the outlook is still for a bumper crop in Canada.

Wheat closed unsettled 1¼c to 2⅜c net higher, corn unchanged to ½c lower, oats ⅜c to ½ to ⅝c up and provisions unchanged to 25c decline.

CHICAGO, July 16.—Wheat prices ran upward three cents a bushel in the early trading today before there was any important reaction. High temperatures northwest and absence of any general rainfall in the spring crop states acted as a decided stimulus to buyers. Opening ¼ to 1⅝c

Declares "Fires of Hell" Are Burning, But Daughter Will Win

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 16—Aimee Semple McPherson's reply testimony of grand jury five witnesses yesterday that directly contradicted her tale of kidnapping from the Santa Monica beach May 18, was the announcement from Angelus temple today, that she had baptized 136 converts at last night's service.

Her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy made brief but pointed comment on the statements of the men and women who told the grand jury that they had seen Mrs. McPherson in Agua Prieta, Mex., during the time she said she was in the hands of abductors.

"The fires of hell are burning and they must burn themselves out, but we are not afraid," said Mother Kennedy.

The next session of the grand jury investigation will be held Tuesday, July 20, when the district attorney's office, promises to bring in witnesses to prove that Mrs. McPherson was travelling with Kenneth G. Ormiston, her former radio operator, while her mother was telling the world she was drowned.

Ormiston sought throughout the country, is believed to be in North Carolina.

The conference sponsored by officials of the central Conference of American Rabbis and the Federal Council of Churches, will be held on the campus of Olivet college, Olivet, Mich., August 8-15.

SODUS YOUTH IS TARGET OF UNKNOWN GUN

Sheriff's Force Have Mystery in Shot Fired At Autoist

Undersheriff Frank Paget this morning was seeking two men who are said to have fired a shot through the top of a Ford car driven by Jack Stewart, 16, of Sodus early Tuesday evening.

The bullet clipped through the top of the car a few inches over Stewart's head, as he ducked.

The alleged shooting occurred just before dark on the Shanghai-Sodus road, approximately nine miles south of Benton Harbor, as the youth was driving home.

After he reached Sodus the matter was reported to Deputy Willard Williams of Sodus. The youth said two men on foot shouted at him to stop and then fired a shot through the top of the car.

Steps on The Gas

Shewart stepped on the gas and speeded into Sodus. He said the men were dark skinned but could not tell to a certainty if they were Negroes.

Deputy Williams investigated last night, but was unable to find out who had done the shooting. Undersheriff Paget went out this morning to question members of a camp of Negro berry pickers in that neighborhood.

The youth reported he saw a car parked near the place but investigation proved that it contained berry pickers from Indiana.

Stewart is a stepson of Robert Buckman of Sodus.

They Got Car, But No Bandits

Here's the stolen Detroit Cadillac car which the Galien bandits used in their Monday job at Galien.

The car was abandoned near Niles after one of the rear tires had blown. The bandits ran the car until the rear wheel was down to the bare rim, as shown in the picture.

The armed officers in the picture, who combed the south end of the county for many hours but failed to bag the bandit pair, are, reading from left to right:

Deputy Orlando Lein, Berrien Springs. "Si" Hutson, night chief of police, Niles; Clarence Dunbar, county motorcycle officer, Chief Deputy A. L. Von Sar.

OWNER OF BANDIT CAR TO TAKE AUTO BACK TO DETROIT

Nathan Borin of Detroit, owner of the new Cadillac coach, used by the bandits who early Monday morning robbed the Galien State bank of $2,700, notified the sheriff's office he would come here today to get his car.

The car, with the left rear wheel damaged when the bandits drove it on the rim after throwing a tire on a cross road four miles north of Niles, is still held at the Berrien Springs garage.

No trace of the bandits who escaped a posse of some 150 armed men after abandoning the car, has been found. The sheriff's office has had no reports from anyone picking up strangers or of any cars stolen in the county.

Descriptions of the bandits have been sent to Detroit, Chicago, and other places, and search is being made for them there.

Checking back through the telephone company, Sheriff Franz found that the person who notified him that the bandits had been captured, was a bystander at Galien, who heard that the car had been found and cut in on a call the sheriff was making to Galien.

The injured man, with seven companions, was driving back to Lansing in a Studebaker from Chicago where the group had taken a number of Star automobiles.

Their car was struck headlong, according to reports, by a Pontiac machine, whose driver is said to have been asleep at the wheel. His name could not be learned today. The acident happened on Territorial road and Burton street.

Lynch, witnesses say, was riding in the back seat of the Studebaker, and was hurled through the glass window in the rear of the car, the broken glass cutting his scalp back from the forehead.

The driver of the Pontiac car is said to have escaped uninjured. His car was demolished. The Studebaker was badly damaged.

The Pontiac car was taken to the Warner Motor Sales Co. and the Studebaker was brought in to the Hovey Auto Sales Co. for repairs.

Mrs. Alberta E. Thomas and daughter Lois of St. Joseph. Mr. and Mrs. Morrison entertained at a family gathering Tuesday.

First Sentinel Marshall C. N. Wright of the 320th United States Signal Corps spent his Christmas furlough with his aunt, Mrs. E. C. Holland. He was entertained at Christmas dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Smythe of the North Shore drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bell, Milton street, entertained Miss Rosella Burnatz of Dowagiac Saturday and Sunday. She came to attend the production of the American Minstrels in which Mr. Bell starred. Other guests at the Bell home were his father Lewis Bell, of Waukesha, Wis., and his mother from Battle Creek. They returned today.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Deam, 85: Britain avenue, have as their guests their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand J. Henderson, of Portland, Me. They will visit here over New Year's. Lieut. Clayton McK. Deam of Chicago was also a guest of his parents and family Christmas, returning last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Crawford, Michigan street, entertained their childre came in and shared the pleasures of a Christmas tree.

Entertain On Christmas Day—

Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Burridge entertained at dinner on Christmas day, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Filstrup and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kingsley and Mrs. Barnes of St. Joseph, Mrs. L. L. Filstrup of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hovey.

Tree is Decoration—

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Leader of Catalpa avenue entertained at Christmas dinner at their home. A Christmas tree was the center of attraction and Santa Claus in the person of Chas. Henderson gave each one a gift. Out of town guests were Mrs. J. B. Danforth and daughter Myra of St. Joseph, and Mr. and Mrs. John Vinton and daughter Edith of Dowagiac.

At The Langenbach Home—

Henry Nichols of Coloma and his son Myron Nichols and family of Bainbridge were Christmas dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Langerbach of 740 Columbus avenue. The latter is a daughter of Mr. Nichols. Miss Lydia will spend a week visiting here, her many friends being delighted to have her with them.

Froberg-Barfelz—

Dr. C. J. McCombe, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiated at the wedding of Mr. Alvin Froberg of this city and Miss Rose Barfelz of St. Joseph, which took place at the parsonage Saturday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Froberg will reside with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Froberg, 733 Colfax avenue.

fteen Are Guests—

Almost all the family gathered round the dinner table at the home of Mrs. A. M. Schultz and Mr. and Mrs.

Navy department of service, being on the U. S. S. Massachusetts. The single ring ceremony was performed by Dr. T. W. Bellingham, minister of the Christian church. They were accompanied by Miss Carrie O. Brown, sister of the bride, and Mr. M. C. Kilmark, who is also in the service of his country, and is on the U. S. S. Massachusetts. Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Becht also accompanied the bridal party. The groom was in the second contingent of Naval Militia that left Benton Harbor. Many friends extend best wishes.

All Home But One—

Christmas was very happily celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Brant, Columbus avenue, when they entertained the members of their family, numbering twenty-four, yesterday. A very nice feature of the day was the presence of C. D. Roome, who is ninety-five years of age, and C. J. Anderson who has been quite ill but was able to be out yesterday. All the relatives but the nephew Wm. Frock who is on the U. S. S. George Washington, were present. A bountiful dinner was served at 2 o'clock twenty being seated at one long table. The day was very pleasantly passed.

At The Rupert Home—

This was a "knitting" Christmas. At nearly every gathering in the city the women guests brought their capacious knitting bags and employed the social hours of the day taking a few stitches for the soldiers and sailors. And this was also the case at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Rupert on Jefferson street where a party of seventeen relatives gathered for Christmas dinner, it being a family celebration. Just before being seated the guests stood about the table and sang "America". Victrola music, knitting and friendly greetings among relatives who had not been together for some time were pleasures of the day. Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Montague of Oak Park, Ill., were out of town guests present for the affair.

Miss Litowich Is Hostess—

At her home, Territorial road, Sunday evening, Miss Tillie Litowich entertained the members of the Harmony Whist club and a number of friends. The evening was spent with the playing of games, conversation and music

n Are Guests—

ost all the family gathered d the dinner table at the home of
A. M. Schultz and Mr. and Mrs.

Navy department of service, being on the U. S. S. Massachusetts. The single ring ceremony was performed by Dr. T. W. Bellingham, minister of the Christian church. They were accompanied by Miss Carrie O. Brown, sister of the bride, and Mr. M. C. Kilmark, who is also in the service of his country, and is on the U. S. S. Massachusetts. Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Becht also accompanied the bridal party. The groom was in the second contingent of Naval Militia that left Benton Harbor. Many friends extend best wishes.

All Home But One—

Christmas was very happily celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs E. L. Brant, Columbus avenue, when they entertained the members of their family, numbering twenty-four, yesterday. A very nice feature of the day was the presence of C. D. Roome, who is ninety-five years of age, and C. J. Anderson who has been quite ill but was able to be out yesterday. All the relatives but the nephew Wm. Frock who is on the U. S. S. George Washington, were present. A bountiful dinner was served at 2 o'clock twenty being seated at one long table. The day was very pleasantly passed.

At The Rupert Home—

This was a "knitting" Christmas. At nearly every gathering in the city the women guests brought their capacious knitting bags and employed the social hours of the day taking a few stitches for the soldiers and sailors. And this was also the case at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Rupert on Jefferson street where a party of seventeen relatives gathered for Christmas dinner, it being a family celebration. Just before being seated the guests stood about the table and sang "America". Victrola music, knitting and friendly greetings among relatives who had not been together for some time were pleasures of the day. Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Montague of Oak Park, Ill., were out of town guests present for the affair.

Miss Litowich is Hostess—

At her home, Territorial road, Sunday evening, Miss Tillie Litowich entertained the members of the Harmony Whist club and a number of friends. The evening was spent with the playing of games, conversation and music

MESSAGE BY PERSHING

U. S. COMMANDER SENDS HOLIDAY GREETINGS TO CAPITAL

General Bliss in Reply Says People of America Pray for Welfare and Success of Army in France.

Washington, Dec. 26.—General Pershing cabled to the president and the secretary of war holiday greetings from himself and the other American troops in France. The cablegram, which was sent to Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, chief of staff, read:

"Please extend to the president and the secretary of war holiday greetings and best wishes for success of our arms during the coming year, and convey to them from all ranks of the American expeditionary forces in France renewed pledges of devotion to our sacred cause.

"Likewise express our greetings to our comrades at home coupled with full confidence in the patriotism, courage and devotion to the flag.

(Signed) "PERSHING."

Washington, Dec. 26.—In return General Bliss sent the following cable:

"The president and secretary of war send you and to the American army in France the most cordial greeting and good wishes for this Christmas season from the people of the United States. Your comrades in every camp and cantonment send you greetings. From every home today goes a prayer for the welfare and success of our troops in France and personally for that of every man of them. The nation reposes in you and them its full confidence that in God's time and with God's blessing its troops in France, side by side with their gallant allies, will bring victory and abiding peace to all the world."

Boraca Bank Wins $7,341.84 Judgment

After nearly a day's deliberation, a jury in Judge Charles E. White's circuit court yesterday afternoon returned a judgment of $7,341.84 in favor of the Baroda State bank against William H. Peck, Chicago fruit commission merchant.

The bank charges that Peck had entered into an agreement to pay all checks cashed on the bank by his son-in-law, Lewis Parkinson, whom he employed to purchase fruit from farmers in this locality. There was an amount of more than $6,000 which Peck refused to pay, the bank charged.

Peck was defended by Attorney J. J. Sterling, and the bank by Attorney Victor M. Gore.

WORLD COURT ISSUEFLITS IN, THEN OUT

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Adherence of the United States to the world court came up in the Senate last night but was put aside so quickly that few Senators realized the subject had been broached.

When the court proposal of Senator Pepper, Republican, Pennsylvania, was reached on the calendar, Senator King, Democrat, Utah, suggested the objection he had made against its consideration would be withdrawn "if the original Harding plan is substituted."

"Not my interpevtion," interjected Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee, and the proposal went back to the calendar.

Mrs. R. J. Klaiber was re-elected president of the St. Joseph City Federation of Women's club at the annual meeting, held Friday at the First Methodist church. Yesterday's meeting was featured by an address by Mrs. George G. Hunter, of St. Johns, president of the Michigan State Federation, and reports from the various Parent-Teacher organizations and clubs was the second annual meeting of the city Federation.

It was voted yesterday to make application to the State Federation for membership.

Other officers elected were as follows:

First vice president—Mrs. Fred West.

Second vice president—Mrs. William Moore.

Secretary—Mrs. W. R. Stevens.

Recording secretary—Miss Elizabeth Smith.

Treasurer—Mrs. Ellsworth Kay.

"If we can teach a mother to make a better home and bring up healthier children, club work is worth while," said Mrs. Hunter in the address given at the conclusion of the dinner.

"Rural and city women must be brought together in an educational way for children come to the cities from the rural schools to complete their education" continued Mrs. Hunter. She emphasized the necessity of looking through the eyes of the child to get the youthful vision, declaring that this is not so much the child age as the father and mother age.

AND NOW THE OFFICERS ARE LOOKING FOR THIS SLY GENT

After looking over the county jail Monday night Pasquale Foresteria, brought there after a liquor raid at his store, 298 Territorial road, accepted an invitation to clear out at its face value and left, it was learned to day.

James Jewel and Louis Sheffield, two local deputies, said they went to Foresteria's place Monday night and purchased drinks. In the meantime, the latter went to the front part of his store to wait on a customer, and upon returning, found himself confronted by guns in the hands of the two deputies.

Although the deputies had no search warrant, Foresteria was taken to the county jail, and steps taken to have a warrant sworn out for him.

Tony Domico and Sam Guzzetta of Benton Harbor, went to the county jail to see about arranging bond for Foresteria. It was just about closing time for visitors at the county jail, and Chief Deputy A. E. Von Sar, seeing the two would be bondsmen looking at the wounded bank bandits, announced it was time to clear out.

Foresteria took the order to include himself too, and left. His absence was noticed after about five minutes, but could not be located in Benton Harbor.

Under the belief that Guzzetta had aided his friend to escape, he later was locked up in a cell there, but denied he knew anything of Foresteria's whereabouts. Yesterday Guzzetta was released. Efforts to find Foresteria have been abandoned, Sheriff Fred Franz said this morning names are unknown, were slightly injured.

Lynch was taken to Mercy hospital where his skull was found to be fractured and his scalp peeled back from his forehead half the length of his head. Dr. C. A. Mitchell dressed his wounds.

The injured man, with seven companions, was driving back to Lansing in a Studebaker from Chicago where the group had taken a number of Star automobiles.

Their car was struck headlong, according to reports, by a Pontiac machine, whose driver is said to have been asleep at the wheel. His name could not be learned today. The acident happened on Territorial road and Burton street.

Lynch, witnesses say, was riding in the back seat of the Studebaker, and was hurled through the glass window in the rear of the car, the broken glass cutting his scalp back from the forehead.

The driver of the Pontiac car is said to have escaped uninjured. His car was demolished. The Studebaker was badly damaged.

The Pontiac car was taken to the Warner Motor Sales Co. and the Studebaker was brought in to the Hovey Auto Sales Co. for repairs.

Knocked Off Wheel

Alva Hennesey, of Cornelia street, was knocked off his bicycle onto the pavement and severely cut about the forehead this morning when he was struck by a Ford automobile, said to belong to Henry Juroff, of Eau Claire.

The accident occured on Territorial road at the foot of Morton Hill. Hennesey was enroute to work at the Benton Harbor Malleable and Juroff was headed for the Benton Harbor Castings Co., where he is employed. Juroff, who was going east, is reported to have struck the bicycle rider as he swung his Ford off Territorial onto Paw Paw avenue.

Hennesey was carried in to the

OBITUARY

DIES AT BERRIEN CENTER— J. H. Green, owner of the grocery store at Berrien Center, passed away at his home there Sunday evening at 9:30. He was 61 years of age.

Funeral services will be Wednesday afternoon, with a prayer service at 1:30 and services at the Berrien Center church at 2 p. m.

The deceased had been in business at Berrien Center for about four years, going there from Pokagon. He is survived by a widow and six children, two brothers and a step sister and a stepmother.

BURY ALBIN FROBERG— Numerous relatives and friends attended the funeral services for Albin Froberg, held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Methodist Peace Temple.

Rev. W. W. Slee officiated and Clifford E. Lake and Theodore Rahn sang, "I Am With Thee," and "Going Down the Valley."

The flower laden casket was carried by Howard Coon, Alfred Kyler, Robert Capen, Bert Henderson, Harry Seeley, and William Kohlberg. Burial was in the Crystal Springs cemetery.

A. M. E. Revival Converts 10 At Sunday Services

"Breaking the Hindenburg line, was the way Evangelist R. A. Adams described the success of the Sunday services which netted 10 converts at the Arnett A. M. E. church and created such religious enthusiasm as has not been witnessed among the Negro people here for many years.

At the Sunday morning service the evangelist made direct appeal to the church, using Rev. 2:4, "Ye have left your first love." He pictured the apostacy of the church and urged that it return and "make Demands for cars deluged railroad offices already taxed by movement of grain from other states.

Attention was focused on the situation yesterday when farmers at Sublette, in southwestern Kansas, reported more than 200,000 bushels of wheat piled along the tracks.

Governor Paulen said yesterday that although Kansas farmers had a bumper wheat crop, a large portion of the money received probably would be used in liquidation of obligations incurred in less prosperous years.

CHICAGO, July 16.—Despite heavy profit-taking sales, wheat today rose to a maximum of 4⅜c a bushel above yesterday's finish. Increasing crop damage reports from northwestern states together with high temperatures and absence of rain there led at times to something of a stampede to buy and December delivery touched a new high price record for the season. Top quotations for the day, however, were not held, some experts contending that the outlook is still for a bumper crop in Canada.

Wheat closed unsettled 1¼c to 2½c net higher, corn unchanged to ½c lower, oats ⅜c to ½ to ⅝c up and provisions unchanged to 25c decline.

CHICAGO, July 16.—Wheat prices ran upward three cents a bushel in the early trading today before there was any important reaction. High temperatures northwest and absence of any general rainfall in the spring crop states acted as a decided stimulus to buyers. Opening ¼ to 1⅜c up the wheat market quickly developed notable strength. Corn and oats sympathized with the wheat advance, corn starting unchanged to ½c higher and subsequently scoring gains all around. Provisions were easier.

BROTHER W. J. FROBERG DIES

Albin Froberg, 29, brother of W. J. Froberg, local merchant and prominent twin city singer, died Friday morning at 7:24 o'clock at his home, 918 Columbus avenue, where he had been ill for about a week.

The deceased is survived by his widow and infant daughter, Frances Rose, aged six months, in his immediate family. He also leaves his mother, Mrs. O. Froberg, his brother, W. J. Froberg, and a sister, Mrs. A. L. Von Sar, in this city, and two brothers, Arthur and Harvey Froberg, in Elkhart, Ind.

Mr. Froberg was employed as city salesman for the Standard Oil Co., and by means of his pleasant personality made scores of local friends and business acquaintances.

He was born Oct. 12, 1896. For the past 20 years he has been a resident of this city.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Methodist Peace Temple. Rev. W. W. Slee will officiate. Burial will be in the Crystal Springs cemetery.

Mr. Froberg's death was due to quinsy and acute inflammation of the kidneys, according to Dr. C. N. Sowers.

PLAN GREENFIELD RITES— The funeral of Mrs. Martha Greenfield, resident of this city for half a century will be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the Martinie funeral home. Rev. W. W. Slee, who is pastor of the Methodist Peace Temple, will officiate. Burial is to be in the Crystal Springs cemetery.

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio, July 16.—Two persons were injured seriously and 20 others received minor hurts today when six cars of the fast Pennsylvania train known as the Detroit-Pittsburgh night express were derailed 17 miles from here.

The seriously hurt are Joseph Harris, 25, Detroit, a passenger, taken to the East Liverpool hospital.

M. B. Murphy, 32, Pittsburgh, Pullman conductor, taken to an Alliance hospital.

Harris is internally injured and Murphy has several broken ribs.

The other passengers and train employes were given first aid treatment on the scene but not taken to a hospital.

The passengers were placed aboard a special train and continued on their journey.

The train had been rerouted to the Cleveland-Pittsburgh division owing

Declares "Fires of Hell" Are Burning, But Daughter Will Win

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 16—Aimee Semple McPherson's reply testimony of grand jury five witnesses yesterday that directly contradicted her tale of kidnapping from the Santa Monica beach May 18, was the announcement from Angelus temple today, that she had baptized 136 converts at last night's service.

Her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy made brief but pointed comment on the statements of the men and women who told the grand jury that they had seen Mrs. McPherson in Agua Prieta, Mex., during the time she said she was in the hands of abductors.

"The fires of hell are burning and they must burn themselves out, but we are not afraid," said Mother Kennedy.

The next session of the grand jury investigation will be held Tuesday, July 20, when the district attorney's office, promises to bring in witnesses to prove that Mrs. McPherson was travelling with Kenneth G. Ormiston, her former radio operator, while her mother was telling the world she was drowned.

Ormiston sought throughout the country, is believed to be in North Carolina.

The conference sponsored by officials of the central Conference of American Rabbis and the Federal Council of Churches, will be held on the campus of Olivet college, Olivet, Mich., August 8-15.

Although Marcus Aurelius Antoninus was a Roman, he is considered among the classical Greek philosophers because he wrote in Greek and was a great admirer of the Greek culture.

HURRY UP YOST TO TAKE PART IN MOVIE GAME

NEW YORK, July 16.—Fielding Yost, football coach at the University of Michigan, is going into the motion pictures. The Famous Players-Lasky company announced yesterday that he had been engaged to supervise the football scenes in a picture to be produced soon. "Hurry Up" will direct teams made up largely of former university players, but whether he will do this from the side lines or play the part of a referee has not been determined.

EX-HUSBAND OF LOUISE HIGMAN TRIES END LIFE

The attempted suicide Thursday of Dr. Arthur Edgar Price, a well known surgeon of Chicago, recalls the society wedding of Dr. Price and Miss Louise Higman, attractive and prominent society girl of Benton Harbor and daughter of the late John Higman, some years ago.

Dr. Price, according to Chicago reports, made three attempts to end his life, after seeking to escape yesterday while in custody at the federal building awaiting arraignment on a charge of using and peddling dope.

Twin city friends of Dr. Price remember him as an attractive personality and an unusually successful physician and surgeon. The wedding was a Higman Park event, before the former Higman Park Inn was burned.

Mrs. Price obtained a divorce some years ago and three years ago re-married, to a wealthy Los Angeles man. Dr. and Mrs. Price had one daughter, Barbara, who lived here a number of years at Higman Park with her aunt, Mrs. Mabel Higman Flood.

The case of Dr. Price was continued by United States Commissioner Henry C. Beitler, until July 20.

He was placed in the Cook county jail under special guard.

tion of prices was necessary, to correct the supposedly weakened technical position, the resumption of bullish operations was attended with extreme caution. The closing of several southern banks apparently was without effect on the movements of listed securities. New peak prices for the year were established in the first few minutes of trading by Mexican Seaboard Oil and Lambert company. Among the more standard industrials, United States Steel common, Du Pont and Dodge were the early leaders.

Another sharp break in French francs, which carried them down to a new low record for all time around 2 1-3 cents featured the foreign exchange market, which displayed a reactionary tone.

The hesitation which had attended the early dealings was shaken off to a large extent, and considerable speculative enthusiasm aroused in spots when General Motors got to 162⅜, a new high figure for the year, before midday. Pronounced headway was made by a number of other high priced shares including Du Pont, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, General Electric, Pullman and Case Threshing Machine. The renewal rate on call loans was reduced to 4¼ per cent

The city's pumping plant, erected four years ago at a cost of a half million, is now pumping about one quarter of river water. The balance comes from the wells, said Mr. Tyler this morning. The water, whether from the river or the wells, is treated with chlorine and filtered.

This is the first time that the river has been challenged as to its supply from the big plant near the purity.

City To Try New 'Stop" Signs

A new system of stop signals will be tried by the city at the corner of Broadway and Pipestone street, at Roosevelt park, said City Manager Guy Tyler this morning.

The signs are made by the Wamblu Corporation of Rochester, N. Y. They consist of strips laid in the street, with letters two feet high. These strips are tightly secured to the pavement. They are considered superior to painting the stop signs on the pavement, as they will not wear off.

LANDOWNERS' DIRECTORY

BERRIEN, CASS AND VAN BUREN COUNTIES, MICHIGAN

AS COMPILED FROM THE COUNTY ASSESSORS' RECORDS

EXPLANATION

The present system of surveying and describing lands, called the rectangular system, was adopted by the Government May 7, 1875. All distances are measured from two sets of Principal Lines, intersecting at right angles. One set, the Principal Meridians, run north and south. The other, called Base Lines, run east and west. At intervals of every six miles east and west of the Principal Meridian and running parallel (i. e., north and south) with it, are established the Range Lines. The areas between these lines are numbered consecutively, Range 1 east, Range 2 east, or Range 1 west, Range 2 west, etc. At intervals of six miles north and south, the Base Line is also paralleled by lines running east and west. The areas between these lines are known as Township 1 north, Township 2 north, Township 1 south, Township 2 south, etc. The area of land enclosed by the intersection of the Township and Range Lines is six miles square and contains 36 square miles. This area is known as a Congressional Township. The 36 squares in a Congressional Township are numbered from 1 to 36 and are called sections. A section is 1 mile square and contains, if properly laid out, 640 acres of land—a number easily divisible. Sections are most commonly subdivided into quarters by two lines intersecting each other at right angles in the center of the section. Other convenient subdivisions are also employed.

Almost every tract of land can be located by referring from the descriptions in the Directory to the county map. For the sake of convenience, the acreage of the farms appears in the column of figures preceding the name of the landowners, and the name of the owner is followed by the description of the property. The descriptions in the Directory, such as NE4 or NW4, SE4 or SW4, refer to the northeast quarter, the northwest quarter, the southeast quarter, or the southwest quarter respectively of the section stated. In a combination of symbols the first always expresses a fraction of the second. Thus, a description E2, NW4 would be the east half of the northwest quarter of a section. The symbol SE4, NW4 would be the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter of a section, and the acreage of such a description would be 40 acres; while the acreage of the E2, NW4 would be 80 acres. The figure below illustrates a few subdivisions of a section with descriptions and acreage:

Section.

(a)	W2	320
(b)	NE4	160
(c)	W2 SE4	80
(d)	NE4 SE4	40
(e)	N2 SE4 SE4	20
(f)	SW4 SE4 SE4	10

Part of the names in the Directory are arranged under sections for each township, and part are arranged alphabetically. These townships, however, are the Political townships which, in their boundaries, do not always correspond with the Congressional townships, as it frequently occurs that a Political township includes all or part of one or more Congressional townships. Therefore in order to avoid confusion, all real property is located and described by the township and range numbers of the Congressional townships. Where the boundaries of the Congressional and Political townships do not coincide the Township (T) and Range (R) numbers are given.

EXPLANATION

The present system of surveying and describing lands, called the rectangular system, was adopted by the Government May 7, 1875. All distances are measured from two sets of Principal Lines, intersecting at right angles. One set, the Principal Meridians, run north and south. The other, called Base Lines, run east and west. At intervals of every six miles east and west of the Principal Meridian and running parallel (i. e., north and south) with it, are established the Range Lines. At intervals of every six miles east and west of the Principal Meridian and running parallel (i. e., north and south) with it, are established the Range Lines. The areas between these lines are numbered consecutively, Range 1 east, Range 2 east, or Range 1 west, Range 2 west, etc. At intervals of six miles north and south, the Base Line is also paralleled by lines running east and west. The areas between these lines are known as Township 1 north, Township 2 north, Township 1 south, Township 2 south, etc. The area of land enclosed by the intersection of the Township and Range Lines is six miles square and contains 36 square miles. This area is known as a Congressional Township. The 36 squares in a Congressional Township are numbered from 1 to 36 and are called sections. A section is 1 mile square and contains, if properly laid out, 640 acres of land—a number easily divisible. OBITUARY

DEATH TAKES MRS. CARL BARFELZ OF BRIDGMAN AT 73

The death of Mrs. Augusta Kunde Barfelz, 73, formerly of Bridgman, occurred at 7 a. m. today in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Rose Collins, 943 Columbus avenue, Benton Harbor, where the aged woman has been cared for in the past three months.

Born in Germany on August 15, 1864, she was married in 1888 to Carl Barfelz, who survives her, and came to the United States in 1893, locating in Berrien county. The couple had resided at Stevensville and Bridgman most of that time.

Besides her husband and the daughter in whose home she died, she leaves four other children, Mrs. Anna Pagel, Benton Harbor; Edward and Max Barfelz of Bridgman, and Mrs. Minnie Wyland, Chicago. Also 18 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The body was removed to the Hall mortuary in Bridgman. Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. from the farm home of Edward Barfelz, three miles south of Bridgman, with the Rev. O. H. Knolls, Lutheran pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Carl A. Barfelz

BRIDGMAN, Oct. 6 — Carl A. Barfelz, 85, a resident of the Bridgman community for 50 years or more, died at 7:45 p. m. Thursday at the home of his son, Edward Barfelz, at Bridgman.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at the Emmanuel Lutheran church at Bridgman, with the Rev. Harold A. Ott officiating. Burial will be at Bridgman. The body is at the Hall funeral home, where friends may call.

Mr. Barfelz was born Dec. 12, 1864 in Pommern, Germany, and came to the United States in May, 1893, where he settled in the Bridgman area.

He was a member of the Emmanuel Lutheran church at Bridgman. His wife preceded him in death 11 years ago.

He is survived by four children, Edward, at whose home he died; Max Barfelz, of Kalamazoo; Mrs. Anna Pagel, of St. Joseph, and Mrs. Rose Collins, of Benton Harbor. One daughter, Mrs. Grace Dombrew, died in 1922. Sixteen grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren also survive.

OBITUARY

DEATH TAKES MRS. CARL BARFELZ OF BRIDGMAN AT 73

The death of Mrs. Augusta Kunde Barfelz, 73, formerly of Bridgman, occurred at 7 a. m. today in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Rose Collins, 943 Columbus avenue, Benton Harbor, where the aged woman has been cared for in the past three months.

Born in Germany on August 15. 1864, she was married in 1888 to Carl Barfelz, who survives her, and came to the United States in 1893, locating in Berrien county. The couple had resided at Stevensville and Bridgman most of that time.

Besides her husband and the daughter in whose home she died, she leaves four other children, Mrs. Anna Pagel, Benton Harbor; Edward and Max Barfelz of Bridgman, and Mrs. Minnie Wyland, Chicago. Also 18 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The body was removed to the Hall mortuary in Bridgman. Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. from the farm home of Edward Barfelz, three miles south of Bridgman, with the Rev. O. H. Knolls, Lutheran pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

* The Rev. JONATHAN SWEET married at Hancock, Mass on , 1782, TEMPERANCE HOLDREDGE, dau. of THOMAS HOLDREGE and ANNA. She was b. Mar. 12, 1768 at Hancock (Bershire County) Mass. In 1790 he is listed in the first census as living at Cambridge, New York, beside his father, FRANCIS SWEET, and at that period and place, he had one son over the age of 16, one son under the age of 16, and two females were living with him besides his wife, presumably daughters, although the census unfortunately does not classify them according to relationship. He apparently continued at Cambridge until 1794, in which year he removed to Burlington in Otsego County, New York, where he is variously described in legal documents as "Yeoman" and "Farmer." In 1794, at age of 33, he made a profession of faith at Burlington, and united in organizing the Second Baptist Church there. He was ordained as a a minister in 1812, at age of 51, and was pastor of the church at Burlington until 2d. 1822. Sometime after that date he removed to Diamond Grove, near Jacksonville, in Morgan County, Illinois. The Diamond Grove Society of Baptists is one of the oldest in Illinois, and was constituted on April 26, 1823. The Rev. JONATHAN SWEET is said to have been one of the earliest pastors and he was the first moderator of the Springfield Baptist Association of Churches. On Jan. 18, 1825, JONATHAN SWEET, SR., appears as the first Publc Administrator of Morgan County. JONATHAN and TEMPERANCE SWEET died in 1840 and 1842 and are buried near Jacksonville. The listing of their children is not necessarily complete.

From Lynchburg's Pioneer Quakers by Douglas Summers Brown p. 90 disownment by the Soc. often implied disownment by the family Nancy Goode Martin who disowned her sons after they had been expelled from Meeting for their gaming & military interests. The sons were adopted by a relation by the name of ALLEN as old John Goode, their grandfather, mentions them in his will as "Samuel & James Allen, sons of my daughter, Nancy Fowler" - Fowler her 2nd husband.
